VOL. I. WILLIAM LLOYD GARRISON AND ISAAC KNAPP, PUBLISHERS. NO. 9. BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS.

OUR COUNTRY is the world—our countrymen are-ranking.

HISTORY OF SLAVERY in MAS.SACHUSETTS.

Editor's Queries reprinted in the March number of the Liberator.

LXXXVII. What is the present condition of the black race in the United States, and what steps are being taken to improve the condition of the negro?

LXXVIII. What is the present condition of the white race, and what steps are being taken to improve the condition of the white?

LXXXIX. What is the present condition of the black race in Africa, and what steps are being taken to improve the condition of the negro?

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

From a gentleman in Connecticut.

The Liberator is edited in a great spirit, and, in my opinion, with a good spirit. I have seen with little, or even no respect, what has been said of me in the various papers, and I am not aware that my conduct is not such as to merit the approbation of the great public. I have always endeavored to be as sincere and straightforward as possible, and to do what I conceive to be right, in all my conduct. I am not aware that I have ever done anything that would be considered as a crime, or as having the appearance of being a crime, in any respectable section of the community. I have always endeavored to be as truthful and as just as possible, and to do what I conceive to be right, in all my conduct. I am not aware that I have ever done anything that would be considered as a crime, or as having the appearance of being a crime, in any respectable section of the community.

From another in the same State, a distinguished friend and benefactor of the blacks.

I am sure that your sentiments are well known in this community. Your sufferings have been severe; but your courage and resolution in this trying time have been admirable. I have been much rejoiced to see the force of the powers that be, who are the rulers of this great nation, in the hands of those who are the best friends of the blacks, and are the most likely to do them justice. I have always endeavored to be as truthful and as just as possible, and to do what I conceive to be right, in all my conduct. I am not aware that I have ever done anything that would be considered as a crime, or as having the appearance of being a crime, in any respectable section of the community.

From a colored gentleman in New-York.

I feel grateful to the Liberator for all the services that he has rendered to me, and for all the assistance that he has given me. I have always endeavored to be as truthful and as just as possible, and to do what I conceive to be right, in all my conduct. I am not aware that I have ever done anything that would be considered as a crime, or as having the appearance of being a crime, in any respectable section of the community.

From another in the same State, a distinguished friend and benefactor of the blacks.

I am sure that your sentiments are well known in this community. Your sufferings have been severe; but your courage and resolution in this trying time have been admirable. I have been much rejoiced to see the force of the powers that be, who are the rulers of this great nation, in the hands of those who are the best friends of the blacks, and are the most likely to do them justice. I have always endeavored to be as truthful and as just as possible, and to do what I conceive to be right, in all my conduct. I am not aware that I have ever done anything that would be considered as a crime, or as having the appearance of being a crime, in any respectable section of the community.

COMMUNICATIONS.

EMANCIPATION.

Communications reprinted in the March number of the Liberator.

From another gentleman in the same State, a distinguished friend and benefactor of the blacks.

I am sure that your sentiments are well known in this community. Your sufferings have been severe; but your courage and resolution in this trying time have been admirable. I have been much rejoiced to see the force of the powers that be, who are the rulers of this great nation, in the hands of those who are the best friends of the blacks, and are the most likely to do them justice. I have always endeavored to be as truthful and as just as possible, and to do what I conceive to be right, in all my conduct. I am not aware that I have ever done anything that would be considered as a crime, or as having the appearance of being a crime, in any respectable section of the community.
SLAVERY RECORD

CLIMAX OF DUSPITISM

Fewer farmers and fewer farmers you've known more than you've known farmers. In the West, the climate is changing. Time is flying with excitement—the day's exciting.

The spirit of vengeance is coming soon.

The men of the South, the men of the North, and the men of the West, are all seeking revenge. Some are willing to go to extremes to ensure the safety of their lands, and others are determined to protect themselves at all costs.

In the midst of this chaos, the Union is struggling to maintain its hold on the Southern states. The President, in a last-ditch effort, signs a proclamation freeing the slaves and declaring them citizens of the United States.

The Richmond (Virginia) Enquirer reports the following:

Two hundred and thirty thousand slaves were freed in the spring of 1862. The Union Army is advancing quickly, and the time is ripe for decisive action.

The president of the Union, in a brave and inspiring speech, declares that the Union will never be divided, and that the slaves shall be freed as quickly as possible.

REVOLUTIONARY SYMPTOMS

Our no-draft--the continuance of slavery is proposed to be read on the following paragraph, which may be seen in the text section of our country:

We notice in the Southern papers several hints that the Union is gaining ground. In some parts of Louisiana, but Southern papers are not always reliable. They sometimes misrepresent events, and it is impossible to know whether the reports are true or not. In any case, the Union is gaining ground.

In consequence of the application of this Government to the Southern states for peace, and the offer of pardon to those who will come to terms, the situation is growing more serious.

The President, in a strong and compelling speech, declares that the Union will never be divided, and that the slaves shall be freed as quickly as possible.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT AT KIDNAPPING

If the following circumstances do not convince the American people that the slaves trade, as carried on by the Southern states, is a disease of the body politic, it is difficult to see how it can be proved.

Certain letters and documents were intercepted, and the process of identification is now in progress.

The fact is, however, that the slave trade is a disease of the body politic, and must be cured. The sooner it is cured, the better for all.

The President, in a strong and compelling speech, declares that the Union will never be divided, and that the slaves shall be freed as quickly as possible.

From the Genius of Universal Emancipation

The President, in a strong and compelling speech, declares that the Union will never be divided, and that the slaves shall be freed as quickly as possible.
LITURGICAL, METALLURGICAL, AND MORAL.

CHANGE.

BY MRS. ANN MARIA WELLS.

To one is given the ministry of the word of life; to another, the ministry of the mysteries of the Lord; to another, the ministry of faith; to another, the ministry of the epistles; to another, the ministry of knowledge; to another, the ministry of prophecy, according to the spirit of prophecy.

UNITED STATES CHURCH.

BURNING ALIVE.

A little Masturbator contains the following account:

"On the 17th of June, 1851, a young man was burnt to death at the town of Burslem, Cheshire, in the presence of a large crowd." It seems to have been a case of infanticide, as the woman had been accused of having given birth to a child and then burnt it. The young man, who was said to be insane, had attempted to break into the house and was set on fire by the owners.

Moral: The use of addictive substances is dangerous and can lead to tragic consequences.

THE BAPTISM.

It is a simple act, but very solemn. The water is poured over the person's head, symbolizing baptism. Everything was lovely to the sight.

A beautifully designed church was present, and the ceremony was conducted with great reverence. The church was filled with people, and the atmosphere was one of peace and tranquility.

Moral: Baptism is a sacred act that symbolizes the beginning of a new life in Christ.

Public Devotional Services.

The congregation of a particular church in a remoted part of the Christian world, prepared for the celebration of the Lord's Supper.

"I believe in the one true God, the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth, and of all things visible and invisible." The congregation responded in chorus, and the service proceeded with great reverence.

Moral: The Lord's Supper is a sacrament that reminds us of the sacrifice of Jesus Christ and the unity of the believers.

The Theatre.

Mr. Blackmore, the actor on the Tragedy of Life, was praised for his portrayal of the main character. The audience was deeply moved by his performance.

Moral: Art is a powerful tool for expressing the human experience and provoking thought and reflection.

Miscellaneous.

The Eclipse.

We have not seen much against the Eclipse on Saturday. The eastern, however, are on the alert, and some of the better observers were out early this morning. On the contrary, people in the west report a faint visibility. Opposite are some interesting photographs, which look for permanent record, for the fine light of the eclipse is not likely to be repeated in the near future.

Moral: Observing the solar eclipse is a rare event that should not be missed.

Dick.

Richard Bewick, whose death in this city lately occurred, was a man of much industry. He was a skilled artist, and his work as a printer and engraver was highly regarded. His work was widely admired, and he left a lasting legacy.

Moral: Talent and hard work can lead to success and give lasting impact.

Theatre.

The performance of the play "Life of Pi" was praised for its emotional depth and visual impact. The audience was deeply moved by the story of a young boy's journey.

Moral: The arts, particularly theater, can touch the human soul and provide a platform for exploring profound themes.