AHAMAD'S ORATION.

Extract of letters from an intelligent colored gentleman in Philadelphia:—

I am filled with admiration at the Oration of the Hon. John Quincy Adams, on the subject of 'A Statement of the Rights of American Independence.' I was much impressed by Mr. Adams' remarks on the subject of slavery. His views are clearly stated and his arguments are compelling. The oration is a masterful piece of oratory, and I commend it to all who believe in the cause of freedom.

AFRICAN-AMERICAN.

Mr. Editor—Your correspondent, "A Subscriber," has suggested the appropriateness of the term Africa-African, in lieu of the many common nouns which are used to designate the various African tribes. I am in favor of this change, as it seems more logical and appropriate than the current terms. The term "African" is more accurate and descriptive, and it avoids the confusion that arises from using the term "African" for both the continent and the people.

A VOICE FROM DELAWARE!

At a large and respectable meeting of the colored people of the United States, held in Delaware, on the 14th of July, 1831, for the purpose of considering the subject of abolition and the condition of the colored people in the United States, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That this meeting viewed with deep regret the attempt to make us, the colored people of the United States, take the lead in the abolition of slavery, and we are resolved to continue our efforts until we are free.

The resolution was adopted by a large majority, and the meeting adjourned.

THE OLYMPUS

From the New-Haven Register.

TO THE EDITOR.

I am induced to address you upon the following subject by the announcement of a proposition made by the corporation of New Haven, to the effect that they will establish a public school, which shall be open to all inhabitants of the city, without regard to color or creed. The object of this letter is to express my approbation of this measure, and to urge upon the citizens of New Haven the importance of a general system of education, and to point out the necessity of making it accessible to all classes of society.

The establishment of a public school, in my opinion, is one of the most important measures that can be adopted by any community. It is the great social institution, and the foundation on which all other institutions are built. It is the means of transmitting the knowledge and wisdom of the past to the present generation, and of preparing the young men of the future to carry on the duties of life. It is the means of elevating the character of the community, and of securing the wellbeing and prosperity of the people.

The necessity of a general system of education is evident to all who will take the trouble to examine the state of the world. The ignorance and vice of the masses, the oppression and suffering of the poor, the waste of property and talent, the frivolity of the rich, the ambition and avarice of the middle class, the squalor and filth of the dwellings, the slovenly habits of the people, are all gross and glaring evidences of the want of education. The schools, therefore, are needed by all classes of society, to give them a knowledge of the duties of life, and to fit them for the discharge of their various employments.

The proposition of the citizens of New Haven is, therefore, one which deserves the hearty approval of all who love their country, and who desire to see it prosperous and happy. It is a measure which will be of great advantage to the community, and which will be followed by many good effects. It will not only elevate the character of the people, and give them a knowledge of the duties of life, but it will also prevent much waste of property and talent, and will be a great source of prosperity and enjoyment.

I, therefore, urge upon the citizens of New Haven the importance of making this proposal a reality, and of establishing a public school, which shall be open to all inhabitants of the city, without regard to color or creed.
AN APPEAL TO THE BENEVOLENT.

The undersigned committee appointed by a prominent and influential society to aid in the establishment of a Free School in Green Bay, Wis., for the benefit of the deserving poor, in order to improve them morally and intellectually, and to aid in raising the standard of intelligence and refinement in the community, hereby present the following facts:

1. That the enterprise is the most important and beneficial that has ever been attempted in the history of Green Bay.

2. That the funds are not sufficient to carry on the work, and that the additional contributions of the benevolent will be necessary.

3. That the school will be conducted in the highest spirit of devotion and industry, and will be a model of excellence.

4. That all who contribute will be entitled to a certificate of merit, and their names will be perpetuated in the records of the school.

5. That the school will be open to all, without regard to color, creed, or nationality, and will be a true model of the spirit of true freedom and equality.

We appeal, therefore, to all who are disposed to promote the welfare of the community, to aid in this noble enterprise, and to contribute such sums as they may feel disposed to do.

JAS. B. BROWN,
Hon. Sec'y.

AN EVENING AT HOME.—No. I.

I satFrank Arnold Van and Mr. Webster, this evening, in the most delightful atmosphere of society, and I am glad to report that the society was perfectly delightful. The conversation was carried on with animation and spirit, and the company was composed of the most elegant and refined people in the city. The evening was spent inudiating the most agreeable and interesting topics, and the company was so perfectly delighted with each other's society, that we were all perfectly satisfied with the evening. The company was composed of the most elegant and refined people in the city, and the evening was spent in the most delightful atmosphere of society.

AN EVENING AT HOME.—No. II.

The New York Daily Sentinel, of Saturday, published an article relating to the ban on women's suffrage in Virginia. The article was written by Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe, and was received with great interest by the readers. The article was written in a very able and persuasive manner, and was received with great interest by the readers. A WARNING FROM THE GOLD MINE.

By MRS. H. F. COGG.

Mark me from my lovely king.

Ye, in joy, in light will bright.

What will man be and thy king?

I shall rule with tyrant sway,

Till ye can say my days;

High and helpless shall thou be,

I will make the world thy throne

He who worships me shall be

Love and friendship, as the way.

To his idol, he will lay;

And in prayer, and in joy;

And in fasting, and in sin;

I will be a chain of love,

To meet thee, not in sorrow;

High in the wilderness.

Will I make the world thy throne;

I will link with wide avarice,

For thy sake, for thy queen;
