CARLTON ON SLAVERY.

A Diamond purchased April 17, 1846, in the New York Daily for a report on the "Meditations on Slavery" by C. C. Woolsey, in the "Liberator." The article discusses the severity of the slave trade and its effects on society. The author argues that the continued existence of slavery is a violation of human rights and a moral wrongdoing. The article ends with a call to action, urging readers to support abolitionist causes and work towards the eventual end of slavery.

FATHER OF JENNY WEAVER.

The story of Jenny Weaver, a Pennsylvania Quaker, who worked tirelessly for the abolition of slavery, is highlighted in this article. Jenny, along with her husband, George, ran an underground railroad station in Philadelphia, helping thousands of enslaved people escape to freedom. The article celebrates her dedication to the cause of abolition and her contributions to the freedom of slaves.

THE LIBERATOR.
JOURNAL OF THE TIMES

SUNDAY, JUNE 28, 1852.

ADDRESS TO THE FREE BLACKS OF THE METROPOLITAN RESIDENCE OF THEIR RIGHTS. FOR THE PROTECTION OF THE SLAVE.

The following address was made by the member of the Free Black Society of the Metropolitan, during the annual meeting of the society, held in the city of New York, on the 28th of June, 1852.

The address concluded with a resolution, that the society would continue its efforts for the amendment of the laws of the state, and that it would continue to publish a newspaper for the benefit of the free black population.

SACRED MELODY.

Then bitter tears they will flow
In many a vale of tears that flow
To the gates of heaven they'll go
To the gates of heaven they'll go

RACED MELODY.

Then in their hearts there will be
In many a heart there will be
There will be songs of joy and peace
There will be songs of joy and peace

THE COMING.

City Council.

City Council.

May 26, 1852. Whence proceeds a what is known as the "Black Laws," which are a violation of the rights of the colored people of the state.

TO THE FREE BLACKS OF THE METROPOLITAN RESIDENCE OF THEIR RIGHTS. FOR THE PROTECTION OF THE SLAVE.

The following address was made by the member of the Free Black Society of the Metropolitan, during the annual meeting of the society, held in the city of New York, on the 28th of June, 1852.

The address concluded with a resolution, that the society would continue its efforts for the amendment of the laws of the state, and that it would continue to publish a newspaper for the benefit of the free black population.

SACRED MELODY.

Then bitter tears they will flow
In many a vale of tears that flow
To the gates of heaven they'll go
To the gates of heaven they'll go

RACED MELODY.

Then in their hearts there will be
In many a heart there will be
There will be songs of joy and peace
There will be songs of joy and peace

THE COMING.

City Council.

City Council.

May 26, 1852. Whence proceeds a what is known as the "Black Laws," which are a violation of the rights of the colored people of the state.

TO THE FREE BLACKS OF THE METROPOLITAN RESIDENCE OF THEIR RIGHTS. FOR THE PROTECTION OF THE SLAVE.

The following address was made by the member of the Free Black Society of the Metropolitan, during the annual meeting of the society, held in the city of New York, on the 28th of June, 1852.

The address concluded with a resolution, that the society would continue its efforts for the amendment of the laws of the state, and that it would continue to publish a newspaper for the benefit of the free black population.

SACRED MELODY.

Then bitter tears they will flow
In many a vale of tears that flow
To the gates of heaven they'll go
To the gates of heaven they'll go

RACED MELODY.

Then in their hearts there will be
In many a heart there will be
There will be songs of joy and peace
There will be songs of joy and peace

THE COMING.

City Council.

City Council.

May 26, 1852. Whence proceeds a what is known as the "Black Laws," which are a violation of the rights of the colored people of the state.

TO THE FREE BLACKS OF THE METROPOLITAN RESIDENCE OF THEIR RIGHTS. FOR THE PROTECTION OF THE SLAVE.

The following address was made by the member of the Free Black Society of the Metropolitan, during the annual meeting of the society, held in the city of New York, on the 28th of June, 1852.

The address concluded with a resolution, that the society would continue its efforts for the amendment of the laws of the state, and that it would continue to publish a newspaper for the benefit of the free black population.

SACRED MELODY.

Then bitter tears they will flow
In many a vale of tears that flow
To the gates of heaven they'll go
To the gates of heaven they'll go

RACED MELODY.

Then in their hearts there will be
In many a heart there will be
There will be songs of joy and peace
There will be songs of joy and peace

THE COMING.

City Council.

City Council.

May 26, 1852. Whence proceeds a what is known as the "Black Laws," which are a violation of the rights of the colored people of the state.

TO THE FREE BLACKS OF THE METROPOLITAN RESIDENCE OF THEIR RIGHTS. FOR THE PROTECTION OF THE SLAVE.

The following address was made by the member of the Free Black Society of the Metropolitan, during the annual meeting of the society, held in the city of New York, on the 28th of June, 1852.

The address concluded with a resolution, that the society would continue its efforts for the amendment of the laws of the state, and that it would continue to publish a newspaper for the benefit of the free black population.

SACRED MELODY.

Then bitter tears they will flow
In many a vale of tears that flow
To the gates of heaven they'll go
To the gates of heaven they'll go

RACED MELODY.

Then in their hearts there will be
In many a heart there will be
There will be songs of joy and peace
There will be songs of joy and peace

THE COMING.

City Council.

City Council.

May 26, 1852. Whence proceeds a what is known as the "Black Laws," which are a violation of the rights of the colored people of the state.

TO THE FREE BLACKS OF THE METROPOLITAN RESIDENCE OF THEIR RIGHTS. FOR THE PROTECTION OF THE SLAVE.

The following address was made by the member of the Free Black Society of the Metropolitan, during the annual meeting of the society, held in the city of New York, on the 28th of June, 1852.

The address concluded with a resolution, that the society would continue its efforts for the amendment of the laws of the state, and that it would continue to publish a newspaper for the benefit of the free black population.

SACRED MELODY.

Then bitter tears they will flow
In many a vale of tears that flow
To the gates of heaven they'll go
To the gates of heaven they'll go

RACED MELODY.

Then in their hearts there will be
In many a heart there will be
There will be songs of joy and peace
There will be songs of joy and peace

THE COMING.

City Council.

City Council.

May 26, 1852. Whence proceeds a what is known as the "Black Laws," which are a violation of the rights of the colored people of the state.

TO THE FREE BLACKS OF THE METROPOLITAN RESIDENCE OF THEIR RIGHTS. FOR THE PROTECTION OF THE SLAVE.

The following address was made by the member of the Free Black Society of the Metropolitan, during the annual meeting of the society, held in the city of New York, on the 28th of June, 1852.

The address concluded with a resolution, that the society would continue its efforts for the amendment of the laws of the state, and that it would continue to publish a newspaper for the benefit of the free black population.

SACRED MELODY.

Then bitter tears they will flow
In many a vale of tears that flow
To the gates of heaven they'll go
To the gates of heaven they'll go

RACED MELODY.

Then in their hearts there will be
In many a heart there will be
There will be songs of joy and peace
There will be songs of joy and peace

THE COMING.

City Council.

City Council.

May 26, 1852. Whence proceeds a what is known as the "Black Laws," which are a violation of the rights of the colored people of the state.

TO THE FREE BLACKS OF THE METROPOLITAN RESIDENCE OF THEIR RIGHTS. FOR THE PROTECTION OF THE SLAVE.

The following address was made by the member of the Free Black Society of the Metropolitan, during the annual meeting of the society, held in the city of New York, on the 28th of June, 1852.

The address concluded with a resolution, that the society would continue its efforts for the amendment of the laws of the state, and that it would continue to publish a newspaper for the benefit of the free black population.

SACRED MELODY.

Then bitter tears they will flow
In many a vale of tears that flow
To the gates of heaven they'll go
To the gates of heaven they'll go

RACED MELODY.

Then in their hearts there will be
In many a heart there will be
There will be songs of joy and peace
There will be songs of joy and peace

THE COMING.