THE LIBERATOR.

VOL. IV., NO. 15, MERCHANTS' HALL, BY \nSANDERS & MANN, PRINTERS, \nW. LLOYD GARRISON, EDITOR.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1834.

SLAVERY.

NOW the question of the generation of the slaveholder, and all that come into the world with the slaveholder, is not to be considered as an abstract question. To be in the generation of the slaveholder is to be a slaveholder, and to be in the generation of the slaveholder is to be a slaveholder, and to be in the generation of the slaveholder is to be a slaveholder.

SLAVERY.

[From the Rev. Mr. Project's Letter.]

WHAT IS SLAVERY?

It is a question not to be considered in any other light than that of its moral and physical effects. It is a question which shall be considered in every other light than that of its moral and physical effects. It is a question which shall be considered in every other light than that of its moral and physical effects.

SLAVERY.

[From the Rev. Mr. Project's Letter.]

WHAT IS SLAVERY?

It is a question not to be considered in any other light than that of its moral and physical effects. It is a question which shall be considered in every other light than that of its moral and physical effects. It is a question which shall be considered in every other light than that of its moral and physical effects.

SLAVERY.

[From the Rev. Mr. Project's Letter.]

WHAT IS SLAVERY?

It is a question not to be considered in any other light than that of its moral and physical effects. It is a question which shall be considered in every other light than that of its moral and physical effects. It is a question which shall be considered in every other light than that of its moral and physical effects.
ANNUAL MEETING OF THE AMERICAN COLONIZATION SOCIETY.

The American Colonization Society was founded in 1817 with the goal of establishing a colony in Africa for freed American slaves. The society sought to create a self-sustaining community where former slaves could build a new life free from the constraints of slavery. The meeting in this document appears to be a discussion of the society's activities and possibly a report on its progress. The text mentions various aspects of the society's work, including meetings, discussions, and possibly some financial or administrative details. The document is not entirely clear, but it seems to be a formal report or address related to the society's mission.