THE LIBERATOR
NO. 85, MARCH 17, 1854
MISSIONARY TRIPS AND TRAVELS.

THE TRADE IN HUMAN PLUNDER!

[Text content starts here]
COMMUNICATIONS.

Lancaster, Pa., Dec. 26, 1862.

I have been a resident of this city for the last six months, having been employed in the sale of the "Lancaster Evening Journal," and have found it a very delightful place to live in. The climate is mild, the people are friendly, and the city is very picturesque. I write to express my admiration of the city and its inhabitants.

Sincerely yours,

[Signature]

VESTMENTS AND SLAVERS.

By the vestments, I mean the clothing worn by the slave. The slave is a human being, and as such has the right to wear whatever clothing he chooses. The vestments of the slave are a symbol of his status, and should be respected as such. It is not the place of the government to interfere with the personal rights of the individual, and the slave should not be compelled to wear any clothing that he does not wish to wear.

Sincerely yours,

[Signature]
ALL OUT AT LAST.

MINE, MINE, TELLZ, UPHARRIN.

$460,000!

The war—The decisive battle in the Union army was fought yesterday, and the results are now known. The Union army, under the command of General Sherman, has captured the city of Atlanta, Georgia. The Confederate army, under the command of General Lee, has retired to the north. The Union army now holds all of Georgia, and is moving towards the south. The war is over.

EMERSON TAKES THE LEAD.

The Editor of the Liberty in Boston. The Liberty of the Press was established in Boston, Massachusetts, on March 6, 1833. The Liberty of the Press was edited by Emerson L. Penn, President of the Liberty of the Press. The Liberty of the Press was published weekly, and was one of the first newspapers in the United States to advocate for freedom of the press.

SATURDAY, MARCH 1, 1854.

ALL OUT AT LAST.

MINE, MINE, TELLZ, UPHARRIN.

$460,000!

The war—The decisive battle in the Union army was fought yesterday, and the results are now known. The Union army, under the command of General Sherman, has captured the city of Atlanta, Georgia. The Confederate army, under the command of General Lee, has retired to the north. The Union army now holds all of Georgia, and is moving towards the south. The war is over.

EMERSON TAKES THE LEAD.

The Editor of the Liberty in Boston. The Liberty of the Press was established in Boston, Massachusetts, on March 6, 1833. The Liberty of the Press was edited by Emerson L. Penn, President of the Liberty of the Press. The Liberty of the Press was published weekly, and was one of the first newspapers in the United States to advocate for freedom of the press.

SATURDAY, MARCH 1, 1854.

ALL OUT AT LAST.

MINE, MINE, TELLZ, UPHARRIN.

$460,000!

The war—The decisive battle in the Union army was fought yesterday, and the results are now known. The Union army, under the command of General Sherman, has captured the city of Atlanta, Georgia. The Confederate army, under the command of General Lee, has retired to the north. The Union army now holds all of Georgia, and is moving towards the south. The war is over.

EMERSON TAKES THE LEAD.

The Editor of the Liberty in Boston. The Liberty of the Press was established in Boston, Massachusetts, on March 6, 1833. The Liberty of the Press was edited by Emerson L. Penn, President of the Liberty of the Press. The Liberty of the Press was published weekly, and was one of the first newspapers in the United States to advocate for freedom of the press.

SATURDAY, MARCH 1, 1854.

ALL OUT AT LAST.

MINE, MINE, TELLZ, UPHARRIN.

$460,000!

The war—The decisive battle in the Union army was fought yesterday, and the results are now known. The Union army, under the command of General Sherman, has captured the city of Atlanta, Georgia. The Confederate army, under the command of General Lee, has retired to the north. The Union army now holds all of Georgia, and is moving towards the south. The war is over.

EMERSON TAKES THE LEAD.

The Editor of the Liberty in Boston. The Liberty of the Press was established in Boston, Massachusetts, on March 6, 1833. The Liberty of the Press was edited by Emerson L. Penn, President of the Liberty of the Press. The Liberty of the Press was published weekly, and was one of the first newspapers in the United States to advocate for freedom of the press.

SATURDAY, MARCH 1, 1854.

ALL OUT AT LAST.

MINE, MINE, TELLZ, UPHARRIN.

$460,000!

The war—The decisive battle in the Union army was fought yesterday, and the results are now known. The Union army, under the command of General Sherman, has captured the city of Atlanta, Georgia. The Confederate army, under the command of General Lee, has retired to the north. The Union army now holds all of Georgia, and is moving towards the south. The war is over.

EMERSON TAKES THE LEAD.

The Editor of the Liberty in Boston. The Liberty of the Press was established in Boston, Massachusetts, on March 6, 1833. The Liberty of the Press was edited by Emerson L. Penn, President of the Liberty of the Press. The Liberty of the Press was published weekly, and was one of the first newspapers in the United States to advocate for freedom of the press.