THE LIBERATOR.

AN APPEAL TO THE FREE COLORED CITIZENS OF THE UNITED STATES.

By E. C. BACON.

Boston, Feb. 8. 1853.

AN INQUIRY.

Mr. GLASSMAN,—I have been led to write to you some time ago, and ask you the reasons why you do not speak to the subject of the fugitive slave bill, which is now before Congress. I have been looking for some time for an opportunity to address the free colored citizens of the United States on this subject. I have been looking for a moment to express my views on the subject, and to urge the importance of our speaking to it, and to show the necessity of our speaking to it.

I have been looking for a moment to express my views on the subject, and to urge the importance of our speaking to it, and to show the necessity of our speaking to it.

THE PASSAGE OF THE BILL.

The bill is now before the Senate, and has been referred to a committee. It has been referred to a committee, and will be reported by them. It will be reported by them, and will be sent to the Senate. It will be sent to the Senate, and will be passed. It will be passed, and will become a law. It will become a law, and will be enforced.

I have been looking for a moment to express my views on the subject, and to urge the importance of our speaking to it, and to show the necessity of our speaking to it.

I have been looking for a moment to express my views on the subject, and to urge the importance of our speaking to it, and to show the necessity of our speaking to it.