WELL DONE, RHODE ISLAND!

Our Senate have done well, but they could do more! It is with mixed emotions that we see the Senate pass the Anti-Slavery Convention Bill. It is a step forward, but not as far as we would like. The bill will now go to the House, where it will face further challenges.

We look forward to a debate in the House that will address the concerns of many Americans. The bill is a necessary step in the fight against slavery, and we are confident that the House will pass it. However, we must not forget that there are still many challenges ahead.

RHODE ISLAND ANTI-SLAVERY CONVENTION

We commend the Senate for taking the first step in the fight against slavery. The bill is a significant step forward, and we are grateful to those who have worked tirelessly to bring it to pass. We must continue to work towards the abolition of slavery, and we are confident that we will succeed.

MR. BENNETT'S LETTER.

Cincinnati, Dec. 2, 1854.

SIR:—In your letter of the 15th, you ask, "Do you believe that by the union of all the slaveholding states to a federal organization, we could prevent the growth of slavery at the North?" I am bound to say that I do not believe it. I am convinced that the adoption of the Constitution of the United States, with its provisions for the gradual and entire abolition of slavery, is the only practicable mode of abolition. I am also convinced that the adoption of the Constitution of the United States, with its provisions for the gradual and entire abolition of slavery, is the only practicable mode of abolition.

In conclusion, I would say that I am firmly convinced that the adoption of the Constitution of the United States, with its provisions for the gradual and entire abolition of slavery, is the only practicable mode of abolition.

Yours, truly,

HENRY C. BENNETT.
