THE LIBERATOR.

VOL. 17.

BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS.

OUR COUNTRY IS THE WORLD—OUR COUNTRYMEN AND ALL MANKIND.

(THURSDAY, JANUARY 23, 1839.)

[Continued from page 2.]

EXPOSE OF OPPRESSION.

The abolitionist cause in New York.

It appears to the compiler of the annual report of the rejection of the estimated amount of relief the so-called "abolitionists" are to receive from the state of New York, that the sum of $10,000 is the amount intended to be expended for the same purpose. The state of New York has been visited by a series of disasters, accompanied with heavy losses, and the cost of relief has been enormous. It is estimated that the total amount of relief thus far provided is $2,000,000, and it is feared that the cost of relief will continue to increase. The state of New York has a large number of poor and destitute people, and the cost of relief is a heavy burden on the state treasury. The state of New York has been visited by a series of disasters, accompanied with heavy losses, and the cost of relief has been enormous. It is estimated that the total amount of relief thus far provided is $2,000,000, and it is feared that the cost of relief will continue to increase. The state of New York has a large number of poor and destitute people, and the cost of relief is a heavy burden on the state treasury. The state of New York has been visited by a series of disasters, accompanied with heavy losses, and the cost of relief has been enormous. It is estimated that the total amount of relief thus far provided is $2,000,000, and it is feared that the cost of relief will continue to increase. The state of New York has a large number of poor and destitute people, and the cost of relief is a heavy burden on the state treasury. The state of New York has been visited by a series of disasters, accompanied with heavy losses, and the cost of relief has been enormous. It is estimated that the total amount of relief thus far provided is $2,000,000, and it is feared that the cost of relief will continue to increase. The state of New York has a large number of poor and destitute people, and the cost of relief is a heavy burden on the state treasury. The state of New York has been visited by a series of disasters, accompanied with heavy losses, and the cost of relief has been enormous. It is estimated that the total amount of relief thus far provided is $2,000,000, and it is feared that the cost of relief will continue to increase. The state of New York has a large number of poor and destitute people, and the cost of relief is a heavy burden on the state treasury. The state of New York has been visited by a series of disasters, accompanied with heavy losses, and the cost of relief has been enormous. It is estimated that the total amount of relief thus far provided is $2,000,000, and it is feared that the cost of relief will continue to increase. The state of New York has a large number of poor and destitute people, and the cost of relief is a heavy burden on the state treasury. The state of New York has been visited by a series of disasters, accompanied with heavy losses, and the cost of relief has been enormous. It is estimated that the total amount of relief thus far provided is $2,000,000, and it is feared that the cost of relief will continue to increase. The state of New York has a large number of poor and destitute people, and the cost of relief is a heavy burden on the state treasury. The state of New York has been visited by a series of disasters, accompanied with heavy losses, and the cost of relief has been enormous. It is estimated that the total amount of relief thus far provided is $2,000,000, and it is feared that the cost of relief will continue to increase. The state of New York has a large number of poor and destitute people, and the cost of relief is a heavy burden on the state treasury.
PRESIDENT.

Mr. President,

At the time of the establishment of the Constitution of the United States, there was a general demand for the establishment of a national bank. The framers of the Constitution were actuated by a desire to further the interests of the United States, and they felt that a national bank was necessary to carry out the purposes of the Constitution. The first national bank was established in 1791, and it was known as the First Bank of the United States.

The First Bank of the United States was established by an act of Congress on February 25, 1791, and it was authorized to issue paper money and to make loans to the federal government. The bank had a charter for 20 years, and it was renewed in 1811 and 1836. The bank was dissolved in 1811.

The second national bank was established by an act of Congress on February 25, 1816, and it was known as the Second Bank of the United States. The bank had a charter for 20 years, and it was renewed in 1826. The bank was dissolved in 1836.

The third national bank was established by an act of Congress on February 25, 1863, and it was known as the Third Bank of the United States. The bank had a charter for 20 years, and it was renewed in 1883. The bank was dissolved in 1890.

The fourth national bank was established by an act of Congress on February 25, 1913, and it was known as the Federal Reserve System. The system had a charter for 20 years, and it was renewed in 1933. The system has been extended twice, and it is now a permanent feature of the American financial system.

The Federal Reserve System is a banking and financial institution that is designed to provide a safe and stable monetary system for the United States. The system is composed of 12 Federal Reserve banks, each of which has a responsibility for a particular region of the country. The system also includes a Board of Governors, which is located in Washington, D.C., and which is responsible for the overall supervision of the system.

The Federal Reserve System has a number of important functions, including the regulation of the money supply, the supervision of banks and other financial institutions, and the provision of financial services to the public. The system is also responsible for the maintenance of a stable and predictable monetary environment, which is necessary for the growth and stability of the American economy.

The Federal Reserve System is an important part of the American economic system, and it plays a vital role in the functioning of the economy. The system is designed to provide a stable and predictable monetary environment, which is necessary for the growth and stability of the American economy.

The Federal Reserve System is an important part of the American economic system, and it plays a vital role in the functioning of the economy. The system is designed to provide a stable and predictable monetary environment, which is necessary for the growth and stability of the American economy.

The Federal Reserve System is an important part of the American economic system, and it plays a vital role in the functioning of the economy. The system is designed to provide a stable and predictable monetary environment, which is necessary for the growth and stability of the American economy.