FOURTH OF JULY.

Among the events which have been taking place in these days, none is more important than that of the Fourth of July, which is celebrated by the American people with a great display of fireworks and public gatherings. The day is marked as a day of national pride and democracy, commemorating the birth of the United States of America.

At Boston:

General Jackson’s annual review in the Green’s Festival Grounds will be held on the Fourth of July. The procession will consist of the various non-combatant organizations, and the last state of the Union, the first in order of time.

At Bangor:

The State of the Union, where men have been in their bosom’s, among the armed forces of the Union, and the last state of the Union, in order of time.

At Centerville:

General Jackson’s annual review in the Green’s Festival Grounds will be held on the Fourth of July. The procession will consist of the various non-combatant organizations, and the last state of the Union, the first in order of time.

At Shirley:

The next one is the best possible for the success of the people of the Union. The people of the Union, in order of time.

At Philadelphia:

On the Fourth of July, the procession will consist of the various non-combatant organizations, and the last state of the Union, the first in order of time.

The Army and Navy—The procession of each regiments will consist of the various non-combatant organizations, and the last state of the Union, the first in order of time.

NEW AND OLD PERSPECTIVES.

The Tribune is published weekly and is available for purchase at newsstands across the country. It is also available online, where you can read the latest issue and access a archive of past issues.

We encourage you to explore the Tribune and discover the perspectives it offers on the world we live in. Whether you are interested in politics, culture, or society, you will find something of interest in this week’s issue.
COMMUNICATIONS.

INTERESTING LETTER.

The following letter was one of the communications received at this office from the Quarterly Meeting of the American Missionaries, held at our mission-house in Washington, D.C. It was written by a gentleman who is a member of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions.

My Dear Sir,

I am happy to be able to send you a letter from our mission-house in Washington, D.C. The circumstances under which we are now living are very different from what they were last year. We are now better provided for in every respect, and are able to carry on our work more efficiently. We have received a large number of new converts, and are making good progress in the work of education.

Yours truly,
