COMMUNICATIONS.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE MASSACHUSETTS SAVINGS BANK.

Mr. President—The business for which we have met is the important subject of the annual meeting of the Massachusetts Savings Bank. I have not the pleasure of being a member of the Board of Directors, and therefore I do not feel justified in venturing upon a detailed statement of the business of the Bank, which is the province of the officers of the Board. I am, however, well aware of the importance of the subject, and of the necessity for giving the public an opportunity of knowing the condition of the Bank, its resources, and the means by which it carries on its business.

The Massachusetts Savings Bank is one of the oldest and most respected institutions in the country. It has been in existence for more than a century, and has been a great benefit to the community. The Bank is well-managed, and has a large and substantial capital, which is invested in sound securities. The management of the Bank is conducted with great care and attention to the interests of the depositors. The Bank has grown in size and importance, and is now one of the largest banks in the country.

The Bank is not only a financial institution, but it is also a Moral Institution. It is a true school of economy, and a source of moral instruction. It teaches the importance of saving money, and the value of industry and thrift.

The Massachusetts Savings Bank is a model of the kind of institutions that should be established in every community. It is a true friend of the people, and a true friend of the public welfare.

I have the honor to be,

Your obedient servant,

[Signature]

Boston, February 18th, 1850.

PEACE LECTURES AT THE SCHOOL.

Mr. President—The school is now in session, and the pupils are busy in their studies. It is a happy privilege to be a teacher, and to have the opportunity of instructing the young mind in the great truths of life. The pupils are attentive, and the lessons are well taught. The school is well-conducted, and the teachers are all well-qualified for their work.

I have the honor to be,

Your obedient servant,

[Signature]

Boston, February 19th, 1850.

NOTICE TO THE COLORED PEOPLE.

We have been informed that the following article has appeared in the Boston Evening Transcript, and we are, therefore, unable to give it in our columns.

[Article]

We have the honor to be,

Your obedient servants,

[Signature]

Boston, February 20th, 1850.

LETTERS.

Mr. Editor—I have the honor to submit the following letter, which I have received from a gentleman in the state of New York.

[Letter]

I have the honor to be,

[Signature]

Boston, February 21st, 1850.