THE LIBERATOR
OUR COUNTRY IS THE WORLD—OUR CONSTITUENTS ARE ALL MANKIND.

BOSTON, FRIDAY, MARCH 27, 1840.

SELECTIONS.

From the Friend of Man.

WASHINGTON, March 4, 1840.

Dear Brother:—I am honored with your favor of March 2, in which you requested me to order some copies of the Lively Worrier for some gentlemen ofyour society. I am at the same time favored with your kind advice to procure a copy for the Reverend Mr. Smith of Amherst, and the Hon. Mr. C. S. Brown of Amherst, who are objects of the best respect in this community. I am deeply impressed with the sentiments which you express on the subject of slavery, and I feel that the liberating influence of the Lively Worrier is a blessing to the people. I shall be happy to procure a copy for all the gentlemen you mention as well as for myself. I hope you will be advanced in the service of humanity, and that your labors may be crowned with success. I remain, sir, your obedient servant,

GEORGE T. DAVIS, Chairman.

COMMUNICATIONS.

RUSSIA.

The recent change in the Russian government has already given rise to much speculation in the Western world. The new regime, under Alexander I, is expected to bring about a more liberal and enlightened policy. There are hopes that the new government will be more sympathetic to the principles of democracy and the rights of the individual. However, the stability of the new regime remains uncertain, and its policies are still a matter of conjecture. The future of Russia will depend on the ability of the new government to address the pressing issues of the day, including the conflict with Poland and the relationship with the Ottoman Empire. The world watches with interest as the new government seeks to establish its authority and continue the progress towards modernization.
