THE LIBERATOR
OUR COUNTRY IS THE WORLD—OUR CONSTITUTION ARE ALL MANKIND.

BOSTON, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1842.

WHOLE NO. 579.

CONGRESS.

COMMISSIONERS OF THE UNITED STATES.

Orders of the Day.

The following are a few of the many orders of the day:

The Senate proceeded to the consideration of the bill to establish a national bank.

The House adjourned.

SELECTIONS.

The Inaugural Speech of the President.

Mr. Lincoln, in his inaugural address, said:

"I am not a candidate for re-election."

The Senate adjourned.

The House adjourned.
GREAT ABOLITION MEETING

The great anti-slavery meeting held at the Monitor's Hall, Boston, on Thursday, Nov. 12th, was attended by a vast concourse of people, who crowded every available space. The President of the meeting, Hon. J. Quincy Adams, read an address to the meeting, in which he said:

"The object of this meeting is to secure the immediate and unconditional emancipation of all slaves throughout the United States. We believe that this is the only way to secure the peace, prosperity, and happiness of this country. We believe that this is the only way to secure the rights of all men, and the rights of all nations. We believe that this is the only way to secure the future of the United States."
POETRY.

From the People's Press.

The Song of the Songbird.

In the days of peace, when the sun shines bright,
And the birds唱 their sweet refrain,
'Tis a joyous sound, that wakes the heart's delight,
And makes all nature seem a play.

But when the stormy winds arise,
And the clouds their lurid hue,
The song of the Songbird ceases his surprise,
And seeks the shelter of his mountain dew.

Oh, let us cherish every note,
And every verse that warms the soul,
For in the music of the heart's own lot,
There lies the treasure of our gold.

From the, Springfield Republican.

The woods are silent,

The wind is still,

And the world seems at peace.

Yet in my heart I hear the songs of the birds,
And I feel the stir of life below me.

For in the silence, I see the beauty of nature,
And I know that she is not dead.

Non-Resistance.

From the New Englander.

The Principle of Non-Resistance.

We are called upon to consider the question of Non-Resistance in its various aspects.

First, as a principle of action.

Non-Resistance is the policy of acquiescing in wrong and suffering for injustice.

Second, as a principle of theory.

Non-Resistance is the belief that all wrong is essentially evil, and that it is unwise to resist it.

Miscellany.

From the New Englander.

The Importance of Education.

We are all agreed that education is important.

But what kind of education?

The education that trains the mind to think for itself, and to act on principle, is the only one that is worth while.

The education that teaches the mind to submit to authority, and to obey without question, is the education of the tyrant.

The education that trains the mind to think for itself, and to act on principle, is the education of the free man.

Valuable Register for Rail.

From the New Englander.

The Value of a Register.

A register is a valuable thing.

It saves time and trouble, and keeps everything in order.

It is a necessity for all who wish to be organized.

The New Englander.

From the New Englander.

The New Englander.

From the New Englander.

The New Englander.

From the New Englander.

The New Englander.

From the New Englander.

The New Englander.

From the New Englander.

The New Englander.

From the New Englander.

The New Englander.

From the New Englander.