POETRY.

From the Kentucky Eagle.

The quiet, the deep, the pure.

Tears in the dark of the night.

When the moon is in the sky.

Gentle winds and sweet.

The stars above, the birds below.

From the Missouri.

The river, the trees, the sky.

The gentle breeze, the softophone.

The quietude of the night.

When the sun is in the sky.

Gentle laughter and sweet.

From the Western Journal.

The mountain, the sea, the sky.

The winds through the pines, the sun through the leaves.

The gentle breeze, the sweet.

The quietude of the night.

When the moon is in the sky.

The stars above, the birds below.

MISCELLANY.

From the North Carolina.

The people, the land, the sea.

The winds through the pines, the sun through the leaves.

The gentle breeze, the sweet.

The quietude of the night.

When the moon is in the sky.

The stars above, the birds below.

From the New York Times.

The city, the buildings, the sky.

The people, the streets, the shops.

The gentle breeze, the sweet.

The quietude of the night.

When the moon is in the sky.

The stars above, the birds below.
