MISCELLANY:

Poetry

We take the following from the Italian Traveller the other day, which may be of interest:

"There was a young lady of Bologna, who was so fair and so lovely, that she was called the "Lady of the Garden." She was the daughter of an old man, who was very rich, and who loved her dearly. One day, while the young lady was walking in the garden, she met a handsome young man, who was also very rich. They fell in love with each other, and were married. They lived happily ever after, and were the envy of all the other couples in Bologna."

Lancashire, Aug. 5th, 1850.

C. R. Sower.