THE LIBERATOR.

Friday Morning, May 7, 1852.

THE LIBERATOR.

Boston.

The Constitution of the United States is no longer a mere paper agreement, but a living, active and unchangeable law, the supreme law of the land. It is a compact between the States and the nation, and the States are parties to it. The Constitution is the organic law of the nation, and the States are its organs, and must act by its authority, and to its constitution.

The Constitution provides for the admission of new States into the Union, and for the regulation of commerce within the several States and among the States, and with foreign nations. It declares that the Congress shall have power to levy and collect taxes, duties, imposts, and excises, for the support of the Government, and to pay the debts and provide for the common defense. It also provides for the raising and maintaining of an army, and for the raising and maintaining of a navy. The Constitution also provides for the appointment of officers for the execution of the laws of the Union, and for the appointment of officers for the collection of taxes, duties, imposts, and excises.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a postal service, and for the appointment of postmasters. It also provides for the establishment of a mint, and for the coinage of money. The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a post office department, and for the appointment of postmasters.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public schools, and for the appointment of superintendents of schools. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public libraries, and for the appointment of librarians.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public hospitals, and for the appointment of medical officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public prisons, and for the appointment of prison wardens.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public charities, and for the appointment of charitable officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public works, and for the appointment of works officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public relief, and for the appointment of relief officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public insurance, and for the appointment of insurance officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public education, and for the appointment of education officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public health, and for the appointment of health officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public welfare, and for the appointment of welfare officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public charity, and for the appointment of charity officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public safety, and for the appointment of safety officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public security, and for the appointment of security officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public protection, and for the appointment of protection officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public defense, and for the appointment of defense officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public order, and for the appointment of order officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public discipline, and for the appointment of discipline officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public justice, and for the appointment of justice officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public punishment, and for the appointment of punishment officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public trial, and for the appointment of trial officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public appeal, and for the appointment of appeal officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public decision, and for the appointment of decision officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public judgment, and for the appointment of judgment officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public decree, and for the appointment of decree officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public order, and for the appointment of order officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public safety, and for the appointment of safety officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public security, and for the appointment of security officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public protection, and for the appointment of protection officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public defense, and for the appointment of defense officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public order, and for the appointment of order officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public discipline, and for the appointment of discipline officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public justice, and for the appointment of justice officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public punishment, and for the appointment of punishment officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public trial, and for the appointment of trial officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public appeal, and for the appointment of appeal officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public decision, and for the appointment of decision officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public judgment, and for the appointment of judgment officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public decree, and for the appointment of decree officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public order, and for the appointment of order officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public safety, and for the appointment of safety officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public security, and for the appointment of security officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public protection, and for the appointment of protection officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public defense, and for the appointment of defense officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public order, and for the appointment of order officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public discipline, and for the appointment of discipline officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public justice, and for the appointment of justice officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public punishment, and for the appointment of punishment officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public trial, and for the appointment of trial officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public appeal, and for the appointment of appeal officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public decision, and for the appointment of decision officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public judgment, and for the appointment of judgment officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public decree, and for the appointment of decree officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public order, and for the appointment of order officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public safety, and for the appointment of safety officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public security, and for the appointment of security officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public protection, and for the appointment of protection officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public defense, and for the appointment of defense officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public order, and for the appointment of order officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public discipline, and for the appointment of discipline officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public justice, and for the appointment of justice officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public punishment, and for the appointment of punishment officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public trial, and for the appointment of trial officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public appeal, and for the appointment of appeal officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public decision, and for the appointment of decision officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public judgment, and for the appointment of judgment officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public decree, and for the appointment of decree officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public order, and for the appointment of order officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public safety, and for the appointment of safety officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public security, and for the appointment of security officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public protection, and for the appointment of protection officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public defense, and for the appointment of defense officers.

The Constitution also provides for the establishment of a system of public order, and for the appointment of order officers. It also provides for the establishment of a system of public discipline, and for the appointment of discipline officers.