

THE LIBERATOR.
PUBLISHED WEEKLY.
AT THE ANTI-SLAVERY OFFICE, 25, CORNHILL.
ROBERT F. WALLACE, GENERAL AGENT.
All communications are to be made, and all letters sent to the printer, to the office of the Liberator, at the Anti-Slavery Office, 25, Cornhill, Boston.
The price of the paper is $3 per annum in advance, or $1 per copy. Single copies are sent free of charge.
Advertisements are taken at the rate of $1 per line for the first week, and $15 per line for the second week, and so on.
The Liberator is published weekly, except on Sundays and public holidays.
The Liberator is published by the American Anti-Slavery Society, 25, Cornhill, Boston.
W. LLOYD GARRISON, EDITOR.

VOL. XVII.—NO. 26.
REFUGE OF OPPRESSION

THE ABOLITIONISTS.
The American Anti-Slavery Society has recently in Boston, at the Anniversary of the New England Anti-Slavery Society, conducted an important meeting.

Mr. Wm. Phillips, after abusing New England, and then speaking of the Liberator as the refuge of oppression, was answered by Mr. Wm. Lloyd Garrison, who said that the Liberator was not the refuge of oppression, but the refuge of the oppressed. Mr. Garrison then read a resolution which was adopted by the meeting, and which was a strong condemnation of the Liberator.

THE CLOSING SCENE.
The New-York Express gives quite a graphic description of the winding up of the Anti-Slavery Convention in Boston, in which it is stated that all ages, sexes and conditions, participated in the grand procession.

UNPARALLELED IMPUDENCE.
The Boston Liberator, we learn, is not only a detestable and infamous publication, but it is also a most impudent one.

FREDERICK DOUGLASS.
Of this negro man, we do not think much. He is a detestable and infamous creature, and his name is a disgrace to his race.

FREDERICK DOUGLASS.
Of this negro man, we do not think much. He is a detestable and infamous creature, and his name is a disgrace to his race.

OUR COUNTRY IS THE WORLD. OUR COUNTRYMEN ARE ALL MANKIND.
BOSTON, FRIDAY, JUNE 25, 1847.

THE LIBERATOR.

DEAR GARRISON,
You will be pleased to hear of a movement which has been made here, for forming an International League of Nations.

Dr. Watson was in the chair, and the business of the evening produced a strong impression on the assembled. When we recollect that less than half a century ago, we were engaged in subsidizing one half of the European Continent to destroy the other, and that we were now engaged in subsidizing those who should and would have been our countrymen in a state of peace; and that more than one half of our enormous national debt, the eight hundred millions of dollars, was now being used in promoting this insane policy; and then consider the immensity of the capital which the merchants and capitalists of the present day are investing and are investing in laying down railroads, which may be termed the "winged messengers of peace," and which are now being used to transport the sword and the bullet; you cannot but sympathize and glory with those reformers in England, that patriotism, elevated and enlarged, and organized action.

THE CLOSING SCENE.
The New-York Express gives quite a graphic description of the winding up of the Anti-Slavery Convention in Boston, in which it is stated that all ages, sexes and conditions, participated in the grand procession.

UNPARALLELED IMPUDENCE.
The Boston Liberator, we learn, is not only a detestable and infamous publication, but it is also a most impudent one.

FREDERICK DOUGLASS.
Of this negro man, we do not think much. He is a detestable and infamous creature, and his name is a disgrace to his race.

FREDERICK DOUGLASS.
Of this negro man, we do not think much. He is a detestable and infamous creature, and his name is a disgrace to his race.

THE FIFTH OF DOUGLASS.

DEAR FRIEND,
We are at present making active exertions to raise $2500 for the purchase of a steam printing press, for FREDERICK DOUGLASS, and other "materials" suitable for printing a new paper, and all the other matter connected with it to be conducted by colored men—the plan to be called the "Liberator."

Dr. Watson was in the chair, and the business of the evening produced a strong impression on the assembled. When we recollect that less than half a century ago, we were engaged in subsidizing one half of the European Continent to destroy the other, and that we were now engaged in subsidizing those who should and would have been our countrymen in a state of peace; and that more than one half of our enormous national debt, the eight hundred millions of dollars, was now being used in promoting this insane policy; and then consider the immensity of the capital which the merchants and capitalists of the present day are investing and are investing in laying down railroads, which may be termed the "winged messengers of peace," and which are now being used to transport the sword and the bullet; you cannot but sympathize and glory with those reformers in England, that patriotism, elevated and enlarged, and organized action.

THE CLOSING SCENE.
The New-York Express gives quite a graphic description of the winding up of the Anti-Slavery Convention in Boston, in which it is stated that all ages, sexes and conditions, participated in the grand procession.

UNPARALLELED IMPUDENCE.
The Boston Liberator, we learn, is not only a detestable and infamous publication, but it is also a most impudent one.

FREDERICK DOUGLASS.
Of this negro man, we do not think much. He is a detestable and infamous creature, and his name is a disgrace to his race.

FREDERICK DOUGLASS.
Of this negro man, we do not think much. He is a detestable and infamous creature, and his name is a disgrace to his race.

THE FIFTH OF DOUGLASS.

DEAR FRIEND,
We are at present making active exertions to raise $2500 for the purchase of a steam printing press, for FREDERICK DOUGLASS, and other "materials" suitable for printing a new paper, and all the other matter connected with it to be conducted by colored men—the plan to be called the "Liberator."

Dr. Watson was in the chair, and the business of the evening produced a strong impression on the assembled. When we recollect that less than half a century ago, we were engaged in subsidizing one half of the European Continent to destroy the other, and that we were now engaged in subsidizing those who should and would have been our countrymen in a state of peace; and that more than one half of our enormous national debt, the eight hundred millions of dollars, was now being used in promoting this insane policy; and then consider the immensity of the capital which the merchants and capitalists of the present day are investing and are investing in laying down railroads, which may be termed the "winged messengers of peace," and which are now being used to transport the sword and the bullet; you cannot but sympathize and glory with those reformers in England, that patriotism, elevated and enlarged, and organized action.

THE CLOSING SCENE.
The New-York Express gives quite a graphic description of the winding up of the Anti-Slavery Convention in Boston, in which it is stated that all ages, sexes and conditions, participated in the grand procession.

UNPARALLELED IMPUDENCE.
The Boston Liberator, we learn, is not only a detestable and infamous publication, but it is also a most impudent one.

FREDERICK DOUGLASS.
Of this negro man, we do not think much. He is a detestable and infamous creature, and his name is a disgrace to his race.

FREDERICK DOUGLASS.
Of this negro man, we do not think much. He is a detestable and infamous creature, and his name is a disgrace to his race.

THE FIFTH OF DOUGLASS.

DEAR FRIEND,
We are at present making active exertions to raise $2500 for the purchase of a steam printing press, for FREDERICK DOUGLASS, and other "materials" suitable for printing a new paper, and all the other matter connected with it to be conducted by colored men—the plan to be called the "Liberator."

Dr. Watson was in the chair, and the business of the evening produced a strong impression on the assembled. When we recollect that less than half a century ago, we were engaged in subsidizing one half of the European Continent to destroy the other, and that we were now engaged in subsidizing those who should and would have been our countrymen in a state of peace; and that more than one half of our enormous national debt, the eight hundred millions of dollars, was now being used in promoting this insane policy; and then consider the immensity of the capital which the merchants and capitalists of the present day are investing and are investing in laying down railroads, which may be termed the "winged messengers of peace," and which are now being used to transport the sword and the bullet; you cannot but sympathize and glory with those reformers in England, that patriotism, elevated and enlarged, and organized action.

THE CLOSING SCENE.
The New-York Express gives quite a graphic description of the winding up of the Anti-Slavery Convention in Boston, in which it is stated that all ages, sexes and conditions, participated in the grand procession.

UNPARALLELED IMPUDENCE.
The Boston Liberator, we learn, is not only a detestable and infamous publication, but it is also a most impudent one.

FREDERICK DOUGLASS.
Of this negro man, we do not think much. He is a detestable and infamous creature, and his name is a disgrace to his race.

FREDERICK DOUGLASS.
Of this negro man, we do not think much. He is a detestable and infamous creature, and his name is a disgrace to his race.

THE FIFTH OF DOUGLASS.

DEAR FRIEND,
We are at present making active exertions to raise $2500 for the purchase of a steam printing press, for FREDERICK DOUGLASS, and other "materials" suitable for printing a new paper, and all the other matter connected with it to be conducted by colored men—the plan to be called the "Liberator."

Dr. Watson was in the chair, and the business of the evening produced a strong impression on the assembled. When we recollect that less than half a century ago, we were engaged in subsidizing one half of the European Continent to destroy the other, and that we were now engaged in subsidizing those who should and would have been our countrymen in a state of peace; and that more than one half of our enormous national debt, the eight hundred millions of dollars, was now being used in promoting this insane policy; and then consider the immensity of the capital which the merchants and capitalists of the present day are investing and are investing in laying down railroads, which may be termed the "winged messengers of peace," and which are now being used to transport the sword and the bullet; you cannot but sympathize and glory with those reformers in England, that patriotism, elevated and enlarged, and organized action.

THE CLOSING SCENE.
The New-York Express gives quite a graphic description of the winding up of the Anti-Slavery Convention in Boston, in which it is stated that all ages, sexes and conditions, participated in the grand procession.

UNPARALLELED IMPUDENCE.
The Boston Liberator, we learn, is not only a detestable and infamous publication, but it is also a most impudent one.

FREDERICK DOUGLASS.
Of this negro man, we do not think much. He is a detestable and infamous creature, and his name is a disgrace to his race.

FREDERICK DOUGLASS.
Of this negro man, we do not think much. He is a detestable and infamous creature, and his name is a disgrace to his race.

WHOLE NO. 860.

THE FIFTH OF DOUGLASS.

DEAR FRIEND,
We are at present making active exertions to raise $2500 for the purchase of a steam printing press, for FREDERICK DOUGLASS, and other "materials" suitable for printing a new paper, and all the other matter connected with it to be conducted by colored men—the plan to be called the "Liberator."

Dr. Watson was in the chair, and the business of the evening produced a strong impression on the assembled. When we recollect that less than half a century ago, we were engaged in subsidizing one half of the European Continent to destroy the other, and that we were now engaged in subsidizing those who should and would have been our countrymen in a state of peace; and that more than one half of our enormous national debt, the eight hundred millions of dollars, was now being used in promoting this insane policy; and then consider the immensity of the capital which the merchants and capitalists of the present day are investing and are investing in laying down railroads, which may be termed the "winged messengers of peace," and which are now being used to transport the sword and the bullet; you cannot but sympathize and glory with those reformers in England, that patriotism, elevated and enlarged, and organized action.

THE CLOSING SCENE.
The New-York Express gives quite a graphic description of the winding up of the Anti-Slavery Convention in Boston, in which it is stated that all ages, sexes and conditions, participated in the grand procession.

UNPARALLELED IMPUDENCE.
The Boston Liberator, we learn, is not only a detestable and infamous publication, but it is also a most impudent one.

FREDERICK DOUGLASS.
Of this negro man, we do not think much. He is a detestable and infamous creature, and his name is a disgrace to his race.

FREDERICK DOUGLASS.
Of this negro man, we do not think much. He is a detestable and infamous creature, and his name is a disgrace to his race.

The editors of the Ohio Anti-Slavery Bogle, who attended this Convention, in giving an account of its proceedings, say:
Among the strangers present at the Convention from other sections of country than New England, were Frederick W. Loring, of New York, and an active part in its proceedings, though on one night the rowdies made so much noise, it was impossible for him to attend.

When the hour of separation at length arrived, it was with feelings of mutual affection and respect. M. Rumrin had to address his thanks and adieu, but to twenty thousand persons, belonging to the most important Abolition Societies in the North, and to the great mass of humanity, had come to contribute to the cause of the oppressed.

We found the meeting as interesting as we expected, and we expected much, for you know that the New England Convention are regarded as the most important Anti-Slavery Convention in the country. They certainly call together a great number of intellectual power than any other, and are composed of men and women whose devotion to the cause of humanity, and whose spirit of self-sacrifice, have been proved in many instances.

There were the battle-scarred veterans of the cause, and there were the fresh recruits, who came from the home of his party, and his sect—here they were fresh as young men, and here they were old as the patriarchs.

South Springs—honorable, not so much by virtue of their names, but by the high position they occupy, and the little boy Wendell Phillips Garrison, who he heard, like those of all other children, bears true to the cause.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

ulation, restored to liberty by him, he a trifling rent, the enjoyment of the domain over which they are diffused. This double dose of charity will be a blessing to the world.

On the departure of M. Rumrin from the domain which he has just relinquished, we were lately called, with whom they now call their father, even beyond the territory in which he has just departed.

When the hour of separation at length arrived, it was with feelings of mutual affection and respect. M. Rumrin had to address his thanks and adieu, but to twenty thousand persons, belonging to the most important Abolition Societies in the North, and to the great mass of humanity, had come to contribute to the cause of the oppressed.

We found the meeting as interesting as we expected, and we expected much, for you know that the New England Convention are regarded as the most important Anti-Slavery Convention in the country.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

THE FREE CHURCH OF SCOTLAND AND AMERICAN SLAVERY.

To the Venerable the General Assembly of the Free Church of Scotland, I have the honor to address you, and to express my warmest sympathies for the cause of the oppressed.

When the hour of separation at length arrived, it was with feelings of mutual affection and respect. M. Rumrin had to address his thanks and adieu, but to twenty thousand persons, belonging to the most important Abolition Societies in the North, and to the great mass of humanity, had come to contribute to the cause of the oppressed.

We found the meeting as interesting as we expected, and we expected much, for you know that the New England Convention are regarded as the most important Anti-Slavery Convention in the country.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

THE SABBATH.
The strength of the present is the observance of the Sabbath, a day of rest and devotion, which is the foundation of our civilization.

When the hour of separation at length arrived, it was with feelings of mutual affection and respect. M. Rumrin had to address his thanks and adieu, but to twenty thousand persons, belonging to the most important Abolition Societies in the North, and to the great mass of humanity, had come to contribute to the cause of the oppressed.

We found the meeting as interesting as we expected, and we expected much, for you know that the New England Convention are regarded as the most important Anti-Slavery Convention in the country.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

THE PROPOSITION TO RAISE A FUND TO PROMOTE THE CAUSE OF THE OPPRESSED.
The proposition to raise a fund to promote the cause of the oppressed is a noble and worthy one, and it is one which we all should support.

When the hour of separation at length arrived, it was with feelings of mutual affection and respect. M. Rumrin had to address his thanks and adieu, but to twenty thousand persons, belonging to the most important Abolition Societies in the North, and to the great mass of humanity, had come to contribute to the cause of the oppressed.

We found the meeting as interesting as we expected, and we expected much, for you know that the New England Convention are regarded as the most important Anti-Slavery Convention in the country.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

THE PEOPLE'S JOURNAL OF THE PRESENT MONTH.
The People's Journal of the present month is a valuable and interesting one, and it is one which we all should read.

When the hour of separation at length arrived, it was with feelings of mutual affection and respect. M. Rumrin had to address his thanks and adieu, but to twenty thousand persons, belonging to the most important Abolition Societies in the North, and to the great mass of humanity, had come to contribute to the cause of the oppressed.

We found the meeting as interesting as we expected, and we expected much, for you know that the New England Convention are regarded as the most important Anti-Slavery Convention in the country.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

There were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age, and there were the noblest spirits of the age.

POETRY

THE FAMINE AND THE FOOD-SHIP. BY WILLIAM COE. Down like the sun, the wild wind howls along the lark shores...

SELECTIONS

THE WAR-TIME CRIMES AND HORRORS. THE WAGES OF WAR. It was a few days after the news of Buena Vista...

THE LIBERATOR

But what can we hope from a horde of ruffians of a mercenary adventurer, who would sell the laws of nature, when they seem to suit...

THE LIBERATOR

And I look within that peasant's eye; no fancy flash is there— To stern reality is linked the blackness of despair...

THE LIBERATOR

Such a scene!—a sergeant, killed! Such a scene!—a sergeant, killed! Such a scene!—a sergeant, killed!

THE LIBERATOR

THE LIBERATOR. THE LIBERATOR. THE LIBERATOR. THE LIBERATOR. THE LIBERATOR.

THE LIBERATOR

THE LIBERATOR. THE LIBERATOR. THE LIBERATOR. THE LIBERATOR. THE LIBERATOR.

THE LIBERATOR

THE LIBERATOR. THE LIBERATOR. THE LIBERATOR. THE LIBERATOR. THE LIBERATOR.

THE LIBERATOR

THE LIBERATOR. THE LIBERATOR. THE LIBERATOR. THE LIBERATOR. THE LIBERATOR.

THE LIBERATOR

THE LIBERATOR. THE LIBERATOR. THE LIBERATOR. THE LIBERATOR. THE LIBERATOR.

THE LIBERATOR

THE LIBERATOR. THE LIBERATOR. THE LIBERATOR. THE LIBERATOR. THE LIBERATOR.

THE LIBERATOR

THE LIBERATOR. THE LIBERATOR. THE LIBERATOR. THE LIBERATOR. THE LIBERATOR.