POETRY.

SELECTIONS.

WORLD'S TEMPERATURE CONVENTION.

HORACE M. M. N. Y. Letter.

J. H. T. P. B.

THE LIBERATOR. May 27, 1871.

WROUGHT FROTH THE PUNCH, BY HORACE M. M. N. Y.

The following lines were composed during the recent visit of the Hon. Anson Burlingame to the United States:

In the house where we sat yesterday, we saw over us
With his face in the air that there is a smile of the same.
For my heart is stronger now, and I love them.

And the earth is all our own, and we are free.

Yet as far as the country's safe, the hand of the law is strong.

May 27, 1871.

J. H. T. P. B.

POLITICAL AFFAIRS.

In the World's Temperature Convention, at Paris, the United States government is represented by the Hon. Anson Burlingame, who has been at the head of our delegation during the last few weeks.

J. H. T. P. B.

THE LIBERATOR. May 27, 1871.

THE BOSTON TEMPERATURE CONVENTION.

Mr. Burlingame was present at the meeting of the Convention on Thursday last, when the question of the admission of the United States to the Convention was discussed.

Mr. Burlingame was the first to speak, and he did so in a very able and eloquent manner.

He said that the United States had always been a great friend of the Convention, and that he would do all in his power to promote its success.

Mr. Burlingame then moved that the United States be admitted to the Convention, and the motion was carried by a large majority.

The Convention then adjourned.

THE LIBERATOR. May 27, 1871.

WROUGHT FROTH THE PUNCH, BY HORACE M. M. N. Y.

The following lines were composed during the recent visit of the Hon. Anson Burlingame to the United States:

In the house where we sat yesterday, we saw over us
With his face in the air that there is a smile of the same.
For my heart is stronger now, and I love them.

And the earth is all our own, and we are free.

Yet as far as the country's safe, the hand of the law is strong.

May 27, 1871.

J. H. T. P. B.

POLITICAL AFFAIRS.

In the World's Temperature Convention, at Paris, the United States government is represented by the Hon. Anson Burlingame, who has been at the head of our delegation during the last few weeks.

J. H. T. P. B.

THE LIBERATOR. May 27, 1871.

THE BOSTON TEMPERATURE CONVENTION.

Mr. Burlingame was present at the meeting of the Convention on Thursday last, when the question of the admission of the United States to the Convention was discussed.

Mr. Burlingame was the first to speak, and he did so in a very able and eloquent manner.

He said that the United States had always been a great friend of the Convention, and that he would do all in his power to promote its success.

Mr. Burlingame then moved that the United States be admitted to the Convention, and the motion was carried by a large majority.

The Convention then adjourned.

THE LIBERATOR. May 27, 1871.

WROUGHT FROTH THE PUNCH, BY HORACE M. M. N. Y.

The following lines were composed during the recent visit of the Hon. Anson Burlingame to the United States:

In the house where we sat yesterday, we saw over us
With his face in the air that there is a smile of the same.
For my heart is stronger now, and I love them.

And the earth is all our own, and we are free.

Yet as far as the country's safe, the hand of the law is strong.

May 27, 1871.

J. H. T. P. B.

POLITICAL AFFAIRS.

In the World's Temperature Convention, at Paris, the United States government is represented by the Hon. Anson Burlingame, who has been at the head of our delegation during the last few weeks.

J. H. T. P. B.

THE LIBERATOR. May 27, 1871.

THE BOSTON TEMPERATURE CONVENTION.

Mr. Burlingame was present at the meeting of the Convention on Thursday last, when the question of the admission of the United States to the Convention was discussed.

Mr. Burlingame was the first to speak, and he did so in a very able and eloquent manner.

He said that the United States had always been a great friend of the Convention, and that he would do all in his power to promote its success.

Mr. Burlingame then moved that the United States be admitted to the Convention, and the motion was carried by a large majority.

The Convention then adjourned.

THE LIBERATOR. May 27, 1871.

WROUGHT FROTH THE PUNCH, BY HORACE M. M. N. Y.

The following lines were composed during the recent visit of the Hon. Anson Burlingame to the United States:

In the house where we sat yesterday, we saw over us
With his face in the air that there is a smile of the same.
For my heart is stronger now, and I love them.

And the earth is all our own, and we are free.

Yet as far as the country's safe, the hand of the law is strong.

May 27, 1871.

J. H. T. P. B.

POLITICAL AFFAIRS.

In the World's Temperature Convention, at Paris, the United States government is represented by the Hon. Anson Burlingame, who has been at the head of our delegation during the last few weeks.

J. H. T. P. B.

THE LIBERATOR. May 27, 1871.

THE BOSTON TEMPERATURE CONVENTION.

Mr. Burlingame was present at the meeting of the Convention on Thursday last, when the question of the admission of the United States to the Convention was discussed.

Mr. Burlingame was the first to speak, and he did so in a very able and eloquent manner.

He said that the United States had always been a great friend of the Convention, and that he would do all in his power to promote its success.

Mr. Burlingame then moved that the United States be admitted to the Convention, and the motion was carried by a large majority.

The Convention then adjourned.

THE LIBERATOR. May 27, 1871.

WROUGHT FROTH THE PUNCH, BY HORACE M. M. N. Y.

The following lines were composed during the recent visit of the Hon. Anson Burlingame to the United States:

In the house where we sat yesterday, we saw over us
With his face in the air that there is a smile of the same.
For my heart is stronger now, and I love them.

And the earth is all our own, and we are free.

Yet as far as the country's safe, the hand of the law is strong.

May 27, 1871.

J. H. T. P. B.

POLITICAL AFFAIRS.

In the World's Temperature Convention, at Paris, the United States government is represented by the Hon. Anson Burlingame, who has been at the head of our delegation during the last few weeks.

J. H. T. P. B.

THE LIBERATOR. May 27, 1871.

THE BOSTON TEMPERATURE CONVENTION.

Mr. Burlingame was present at the meeting of the Convention on Thursday last, when the question of the admission of the United States to the Convention was discussed.

Mr. Burlingame was the first to speak, and he did so in a very able and eloquent manner.

He said that the United States had always been a great friend of the Convention, and that he would do all in his power to promote its success.

Mr. Burlingame then moved that the United States be admitted to the Convention, and the motion was carried by a large majority.

The Convention then adjourned.

THE LIBERATOR. May 27, 1871.

WROUGHT FROTH THE PUNCH, BY HORACE M. M. N. Y.

The following lines were composed during the recent visit of the Hon. Anson Burlingame to the United States:

In the house where we sat yesterday, we saw over us
With his face in the air that there is a smile of the same.
For my heart is stronger now, and I love them.

And the earth is all our own, and we are free.

Yet as far as the country's safe, the hand of the law is strong.

May 27, 1871.

J. H. T. P. B.

POLITICAL AFFAIRS.

In the World's Temperature Convention, at Paris, the United States government is represented by the Hon. Anson Burlingame, who has been at the head of our delegation during the last few weeks.

J. H. T. P. B.

THE LIBERATOR. May 27, 1871.

THE BOSTON TEMPERATURE CONVENTION.

Mr. Burlingame was present at the meeting of the Convention on Thursday last, when the question of the admission of the United States to the Convention was discussed.

Mr. Burlingame was the first to speak, and he did so in a very able and eloquent manner.

He said that the United States had always been a great friend of the Convention, and that he would do all in his power to promote its success.

Mr. Burlingame then moved that the United States be admitted to the Convention, and the motion was carried by a large majority.

The Convention then adjourned.

THE LIBERATOR. May 27, 1871.

WROUGHT FROTH THE PUNCH, BY HORACE M. M. N. Y.

The following lines were composed during the recent visit of the Hon. Anson Burlingame to the United States:

In the house where we sat yesterday, we saw over us
With his face in the air that there is a smile of the same.
For my heart is stronger now, and I love them.

And the earth is all our own, and we are free.

Yet as far as the country's safe, the hand of the law is strong.

May 27, 1871.

J. H. T. P. B.

POLITICAL AFFAIRS.

In the World's Temperature Convention, at Paris, the United States government is represented by the Hon. Anson Burlingame, who has been at the head of our delegation during the last few weeks.

J. H. T. P. B.

THE LIBERATOR. May 27, 1871.

THE BOSTON TEMPERATURE CONVENTION.

Mr. Burlingame was present at the meeting of the Convention on Thursday last, when the question of the admission of the United States to the Convention was discussed.

Mr. Burlingame was the first to speak, and he did so in a very able and eloquent manner.

He said that the United States had always been a great friend of the Convention, and that he would do all in his power to promote its success.

Mr. Burlingame then moved that the United States be admitted to the Convention, and the motion was carried by a large majority.

The Convention then adjourned.

THE LIBERATOR. May 27, 1871.