THE PLANTERS' SOUTHERN DEEDS.

The following dispatch was sent to the New York Times by Mr. P. B. S. Pinchback, of New Orleans, who is in the Southern States:

"I have just received a communication from a Southern gentleman, who is a leading member of the Southern aristocracy, stating that he has been engaged in negotiations with a group of Northern capitalists, with a view to the purchase of a large number of Southern plantations and the settlement of the freedmen on the plantations as tenant farmers. He further states that he is confident of the success of these negotiations, and that he will be able to complete the purchase within the next few weeks. He also states that he is prepared to make substantial payments to the Southern planters for the sale of their land, and that he is willing to enter into long-term agreements to provide for the maintenance of the freedmen on the plantations.

"The Southern gentleman also states that he is confident of the success of these negotiations, and that he will be able to complete the purchase within the next few weeks. He also states that he is prepared to make substantial payments to the Southern planters for the sale of their land, and that he is willing to enter into long-term agreements to provide for the maintenance of the freedmen on the plantations.

"I have been informed that the Southern gentleman is a member of the Southern aristocracy, and that he is well known for his generosity and philanthropy. He has previously made substantial contributions to the support of education and the arts in the Southern States, and he is well respected for his integrity and public service.

"I am confident that this agreement will be beneficial to the freedmen, who will have the opportunity to earn a living and to improve their lives. I am also confident that it will be beneficial to the Southern planters, who will receive substantial payments for their land and will have the opportunity to continue their agricultural activities.

"I am pleased to hear of this agreement, and I urge all Southerners to support the freedmen in their efforts to improve their lives. I am confident that this agreement will be a step towards the reunification of the South and the restoration of its former prosperity."
