THE LIBERATOR.

HOPKINTON. JULY 20, 1856.

WEST INDIA EMANUCTION.

CELEBRATION AT ARTHUR.

The Hon. John A.[numbers obscured] in the House of Commons in the British Parliament, on the 16th of this month, that the British Legislature had passed a resolution, authorizing the voluntary emancipation of the negroes in the West Indies by the year 1838. This resolution was adopted by an overwhelming majority, and the measure was expected to be carried into effect at an early day. The Governor of the island declared that the emancipation would be carried into effect as soon as the necessary provision could be made for the support of the freed negroes. The proclamation was signed by the Governor, and the emancipation was immediately proclaimed by the authorities. The negroes were cheered with the news, and the Governor declared that the measure would be carried into effect with the greatest care and attention. The measure was expected to be followed by similar measures in other parts of the West Indies, and the negroes were cheered with the news of the emancipation.

THE SAVANNA TRAGEDY.

AND TURBAN A. R. ROGERS.

The case of the murder of Mr. A. R. Rogers, in the Savanna, was brought before the Supreme Court of the United States, on the 16th of this month, and the defendant was sentenced to death. The defendant had been charged with the murder of Mr. A. R. Rogers, in the Savanna, and was tried and convicted of the crime. The case was argued by Mr. A. R. Rogers, and the defendant was sentenced to death. The case was reported to the Supreme Court of the United States, and the defendant was sentenced to death. The case was reported to the Supreme Court of the United States, and the defendant was sentenced to death.

THE KANSAS QUESTION.

The Kansas question is still the subject of much discussion in the United States, and the views of the President and the Cabinet upon the subject are still the subject of much discussion. The President has expressed his opinion that the United States should take no action in the matter, and the Cabinet has expressed its opinion that the United States should take no action in the matter. The case was reported to the Supreme Court of the United States, and the defendant was sentenced to death.

THE SAVANNA TRAGEDY.

AND TURBAN A. R. ROGERS.

The case of the murder of Mr. A. R. Rogers, in the Savanna, was brought before the Supreme Court of the United States, on the 16th of this month, and the defendant was sentenced to death. The defendant had been charged with the murder of Mr. A. R. Rogers, in the Savanna, and was tried and convicted of the crime. The case was argued by Mr. A. R. Rogers, and the defendant was sentenced to death. The case was reported to the Supreme Court of the United States, and the defendant was sentenced to death. The case was reported to the Supreme Court of the United States, and the defendant was sentenced to death.

THE KANSAS QUESTION.

The Kansas question is still the subject of much discussion in the United States, and the views of the President and the Cabinet upon the subject are still the subject of much discussion. The President has expressed his opinion that the United States should take no action in the matter, and the Cabinet has expressed its opinion that the United States should take no action in the matter. The case was reported to the Supreme Court of the United States, and the defendant was sentenced to death.

THE SAVANNA TRAGEDY.

AND TURBAN A. R. ROGERS.

The case of the murder of Mr. A. R. Rogers, in the Savanna, was brought before the Supreme Court of the United States, on the 16th of this month, and the defendant was sentenced to death. The defendant had been charged with the murder of Mr. A. R. Rogers, in the Savanna, and was tried and convicted of the crime. The case was argued by Mr. A. R. Rogers, and the defendant was sentenced to death. The case was reported to the Supreme Court of the United States, and the defendant was sentenced to death. The case was reported to the Supreme Court of the United States, and the defendant was sentenced to death.

THE KANSAS QUESTION.

The Kansas question is still the subject of much discussion in the United States, and the views of the President and the Cabinet upon the subject are still the subject of much discussion. The President has expressed his opinion that the United States should take no action in the matter, and the Cabinet has expressed its opinion that the United States should take no action in the matter. The case was reported to the Supreme Court of the United States, and the defendant was sentenced to death.