THE LIBERATOR.

No Union with Massachusetts.

BOSTON, FEBRUARY 1, 1856.

[Body of text, discussing issues related to the Union with Massachusetts, with references to political events and social issues of the time.]
FEVER II.

THE LIBERATOR.

THE ANNUAL MEETING.

The meeting of the American Anti-Slavery Society was held at the American Hall, New York, on Monday, the 17th of February, A. D. 1850. Dr. Channing was called to the chair, and an address of welcome was delivered by the president. The Secretary then read a letter from Mr. S. E. Haven, of the Anti-Slavery Society, in England, congratulating the Society on its 50th anniversary, and expressing a hope that its work would soon be accomplished. Mr. G. W. Platt then read a letter from Mr. J. G. Towne, of Canada, congratulating the Society on its long and successful existence, and expressing a hope that it would continue to stand firm in its work for the abolition of slavery. The Secretary then read a letter from Mr. J. G. Towne, of Canada, congratulating the Society on its 50th anniversary, and expressing a hope that it would continue to stand firm in its work for the abolition of slavery.

The following resolutions were then adopted:

1. That the American Anti-Slavery Society, founded in the year 1813, is a body of men and women who, for nearly 40 years, have been engaged in the work of abolishing slavery, and that they have been successful in the accomplishment of that object.

2. That the American Anti-Slavery Society, founded in the year 1813, is a body of men and women who, for nearly 40 years, have been engaged in the work of abolishing slavery, and that they have been successful in the accomplishment of that object.

3. That the American Anti-Slavery Society, founded in the year 1813, is a body of men and women who, for nearly 40 years, have been engaged in the work of abolishing slavery, and that they have been successful in the accomplishment of that object.

4. That the American Anti-Slavery Society, founded in the year 1813, is a body of men and women who, for nearly 40 years, have been engaged in the work of abolishing slavery, and that they have been successful in the accomplishment of that object.

5. That the American Anti-Slavery Society, founded in the year 1813, is a body of men and women who, for nearly 40 years, have been engaged in the work of abolishing slavery, and that they have been successful in the accomplishment of that object.

The following discussion was then held:

Mr. B. B. Rush: The American Anti-Slavery Society, founded in the year 1813, is a body of men and women who, for nearly 40 years, have been engaged in the work of abolishing slavery, and that they have been successful in the accomplishment of that object.

Mr. J. G. Towne: The American Anti-Slavery Society, founded in the year 1813, is a body of men and women who, for nearly 40 years, have been engaged in the work of abolishing slavery, and that they have been successful in the accomplishment of that object.

Mr. G. W. Platt: The American Anti-Slavery Society, founded in the year 1813, is a body of men and women who, for nearly 40 years, have been engaged in the work of abolishing slavery, and that they have been successful in the accomplishment of that object.

The meeting then adjourned.

Mr. B. B. Rush: The American Anti-Slavery Society, founded in the year 1813, is a body of men and women who, for nearly 40 years, have been engaged in the work of abolishing slavery, and that they have been successful in the accomplishment of that object.

Mr. J. G. Towne: The American Anti-Slavery Society, founded in the year 1813, is a body of men and women who, for nearly 40 years, have been engaged in the work of abolishing slavery, and that they have been successful in the accomplishment of that object.

Mr. G. W. Platt: The American Anti-Slavery Society, founded in the year 1813, is a body of men and women who, for nearly 40 years, have been engaged in the work of abolishing slavery, and that they have been successful in the accomplishment of that object.

The meeting then adjourned.