THE LIBERATOR.

MY CONCERNINGS WITH SLAVERY IN THE SOUTH.

To John Quincy,

Your decision to do this is my sorrow. I am indeed sorry to hear that you feel it necessary to publish the details of your visit to the South. I have always been opposed to slavery and the spread of it. I believe that the southern states have been under a false impression about the country. They believe that their society is a God-given law, and that the institution of slavery is a necessary evil. I believe that this is not true, and that the institution of slavery is a sin against humanity.

I have always been opposed to slavery and the spread of it. I believe that the southern states have been under a false impression about the country. They believe that their society is a God-given law, and that the institution of slavery is a necessary evil. I believe that this is not true, and that the institution of slavery is a sin against humanity.

I have always been opposed to slavery and the spread of it. I believe that the southern states have been under a false impression about the country. They believe that their society is a God-given law, and that the institution of slavery is a necessary evil. I believe that this is not true, and that the institution of slavery is a sin against humanity.

I have always been opposed to slavery and the spread of it. I believe that the southern states have been under a false impression about the country. They believe that their society is a God-given law, and that the institution of slavery is a necessary evil. I believe that this is not true, and that the institution of slavery is a sin against humanity.

I have always been opposed to slavery and the spread of it. I believe that the southern states have been under a false impression about the country. They believe that their society is a God-given law, and that the institution of slavery is a necessary evil. I believe that this is not true, and that the institution of slavery is a sin against humanity.

I have always been opposed to slavery and the spread of it. I believe that the southern states have been under a false impression about the country. They believe that their society is a God-given law, and that the institution of slavery is a necessary evil. I believe that this is not true, and that the institution of slavery is a sin against humanity.

I have always been opposed to slavery and the spread of it. I believe that the southern states have been under a false impression about the country. They believe that their society is a God-given law, and that the institution of slavery is a necessary evil. I believe that this is not true, and that the institution of slavery is a sin against humanity.

I have always been opposed to slavery and the spread of it. I believe that the southern states have been under a false impression about the country. They believe that their society is a God-given law, and that the institution of slavery is a necessary evil. I believe that this is not true, and that the institution of slavery is a sin against humanity.

I have always been opposed to slavery and the spread of it. I believe that the southern states have been under a false impression about the country. They believe that their society is a God-given law, and that the institution of slavery is a necessary evil. I believe that this is not true, and that the institution of slavery is a sin against humanity.

I have always been opposed to slavery and the spread of it. I believe that the southern states have been under a false impression about the country. They believe that their society is a God-given law, and that the institution of slavery is a necessary evil. I believe that this is not true, and that the institution of slavery is a sin against humanity.