

The Liberator.

POETRY.

VOICES OF THE FARM.

(The second in a series of New Year's songs.)

[Text continues here which is not transcribed due to the length and complexity of the page.]

FREE LVERS.

A point of free love is a free thought that embraces the present wrong. This following is an outlook of the moment. For when I see a woman whose love is not free, I must question the policy of my country.

[Text continues here which is not transcribed due to the length and complexity of the page.]

MRS. SHAPARA'S RECIPE.

How do you like my recipe, Mrs. Sharon? It is very simple, and yet it is very good. You can make it at home, and it will be as good as mine. But you must not forget to use the right kind of sugar.

[Text continues here which is not transcribed due to the length and complexity of the page.]

ANNEXATION.

How do you like my annexation plan, Mr. Borland? It is very original, and I think it will be successful. You must try it out, and see how it works.

[Text continues here which is not transcribed due to the length and complexity of the page.]

SCIENCE.

How do you like my new scientific discovery, Mr.
Shapara? It is very interesting, and I think it will prove very valuable. You must try it out, and see how it works.

[Text continues here which is not transcribed due to the length and complexity of the page.]

HOME SCHOOL.

How do you like my new home school plan, Mr.
Borland? It is very interesting, and I think it will prove very valuable. You must try it out, and see how it works.

[Text continues here which is not transcribed due to the length and complexity of the page.]

LANDON HOTEL.

How do you like my new Landon hotel plan, Mr.
Shapara? It is very interesting, and I think it will prove very valuable. You must try it out, and see how it works.

[Text continues here which is not transcribed due to the length and complexity of the page.]

Something New!

How do you like my new something new plan, Mr.
Borland? It is very interesting, and I think it will prove very valuable. You must try it out, and see how it works.

[Text continues here which is not transcribed due to the length and complexity of the page.]

[Additional text continues which is not transcribed due to the length and complexity of the page.]