The Liberator.

EXTRA.

Boston, July 22, 1859.

The death of Hon. Samuel J. Tilden, of New York, a member of the American Anti-Slavery Society, and an able and efficient advocate of the noble cause of freedom, has caused much regret and sorrow. Mr. Tilden was a strong supporter of the Emancipation Proclamation, and was one of the few who were willing to risk their lives for the rights of the negro. He was a man of principle, and was always ready to stand up for what he believed to be right. His death is a great loss to the cause of freedom, and his memory will be forever honored.

WAR AND CIVILIZATION.

Among the most interesting articles in the last number of the "Liberator" is that of Mr. H. M. T. Smith, "Aventures and Observations in Brazil." This article, of course, cannot be read without an interest in Brazil, which is a country not entirely under the control of the United States. Mr. Smith's narrative is full of interest, and is a valuable addition to the knowledge of the country. His account of the Brazilian population is particularly interesting, and his description of the customs and manners of the people is most interesting.
