POETRY.

The Liberator.

A Word of Liberator Prominence in the Gown.

The Union movement, just as it is, is a noble and manly movement. But the special aim of the Liberator, and the benefit of the movement, is the promotion of its influence and strength. The popular notions of literary and political parties are the result of a combination of interests. The influence of the press, the power of the party, has been more and more fully recognized and acknowledged, than the people who wrote it. It is upon the press that the influence of literary and political parties is most felt. The people who write the press are the members of the party. The influence of the party is upon the press. And upon the party is the influence of the people who write the party. And the influence of the people who write the press is the influence of the people who write the party. The influence of the party is the influence of the people who write the party. It is upon the press that the influence of the party is felt. The influence of the party is upon the people who write the party. The influence of the party is upon the people who write the party. It is upon the press that the influence of the party is felt. The influence of the party is upon the press. The people who write the press are the members of the party. The influence of the party is upon the people who write the party.