The Liberator
No. 1886.
Boston, August 7, 1849.

West India Emancipation.
The question of the abolition of the slave trade in the British West Indies is now before the British Parliament, and the debate on the subject has already been commenced. The abolition of the slave trade in the British West Indies is a subject of great importance, as it affects the welfare of the colonies and the interests of the nation. The abolition of the slave trade is a step in the right direction, and is likely to have a beneficial effect on the social and economic conditions of the colonies.

Mr. Speaker, I rise to address the members of the House, on the subject of the West Indies emancipation. The abolition of the slave trade in the British West Indies is a step in the right direction, and is likely to have a beneficial effect on the social and economic conditions of the colonies. The abolition of the slave trade is a step in the right direction, and is likely to have a beneficial effect on the social and economic conditions of the colonies.