From the American Anti-Slavery Record, March 8. THE FEMALE OPPRESSION.

The STEADY ADVANCEMENT of the Cause of Slavery in the United States, and the steady advance of the pro-slavery party in the national administration, has brought about a change in the public sentiment, which is not in favor of the abolition of slavery. The agitation of the question of slavery has been increased, and the pro-slavery party has been strengthened. Selections.

Boston Conservatism.

It is generally believed that the Senate will not be able to pass the President's re-election bill. The President himself seems to be convinced of this, and has therefore decided to take no further action. The bill was introduced by Mr. S. H. Long, of Mississippi, and has been under discussion for some time. It was passed by the House, but failed to pass the Senate.

Mr. Long's bill provides for the appointment of a commission to inquire into the condition of the South, and to report upon the best means of remedying the evil. The President has promised to sign the bill if it is passed by the Senate. He has also promised to sign a similar bill if it is passed by the House.

The President's action is likely to cause a great deal of excitement in the South, and is likely to be a matter of much interest to the people of the North.
