Refuge of Oppression.

The Emigration League.

We have been induced to publish a notice of the meeting of the Emigration League, which is to be held at the time the House of Representatives will be in session during the early part of the year. This meeting is to be held in order to promote the object of the Emigration League, which is to encourage the emigration of free negroes from the United States to the British colonies in the West Indies. The meeting is to be held in the city of Philadelphia, on the first day of January, at the American Sansome Society, in the street near the city hall. The meeting is to be held in the evening, at 7 o'clock, and is to be attended by a large number of negroes from the United States, who are anxious to emigrate to the British colonies in the West Indies.

Selections.

From the American Anti-Slavery Almanac.

The moral character of the Negro.

The negro is a true and faithful member of the human family. He is a true and faithful servant of God. He is a true and faithful son of his father. He is a true and faithful husband of his wife. He is a true and faithful friend of his friends. He is a true and faithful enemy of his enemies. He is a true and faithful citizen of his country. He is a true and faithful member of his society. He is a true and faithful servant of his master. He is a true and faithful servant of his mistress. He is a true and faithful servant of his lord. He is a true and faithful servant of his lady. He is a true and faithful servant of his king. He is a true and faithful servant of his queen. He is a true and faithful servant of his emperor. He is a true and faithful servant of his empress. He is a true and faithful servant of his sovereign. He is a true and faithful servant of his monarch.

Twice of Mr. Simeon to the Memory of Mr. B. H. Bates.

We remember Mr. Simeon, a true and faithful servant of his master. He was a true and faithful servant of his mistress. He was a true and faithful servant of his lord. He was a true and faithful servant of his lady. He was a true and faithful servant of his king. He was a true and faithful servant of his queen. He was a true and faithful servant of his emperor. He was a true and faithful servant of his empress. He was a true and faithful servant of his sovereign. He was a true and faithful servant of his monarch.
THE LIBERATOR.

Boston, Friday, December 30, 1864.

SIGN OF THE FUTURE?

The question of the Constitution, the claims of the Union, and the issues which are raised as a test of the existing Federal Government, are of such importance that they will be the subject of special legislation. It is evident that the question of the Union is of the highest interest, and that the question of the Constitution is also of the utmost importance.

We are now entering upon a new era, and it is of the utmost importance that the Constitution should be maintained as the fundamental law of the land. It is evident that the question of the Union is of the highest interest, and that the question of the Constitution is also of the utmost importance.

We are now entering upon a new era, and it is of the utmost importance that the Constitution should be maintained as the fundamental law of the land.

We are now entering upon a new era, and it is of the utmost importance that the Constitution should be maintained as the fundamental law of the land.
DECEMBER 20.

THE LIBERATOR.

THE TWENTY-FOURTH NATIONAL ANNUAL MEETING.

This day we have a new paper in our hands, that has been much anticipated by the friends of freedom and justice, the twenty-fourth Annual Meeting of the American Anti-Slavery Society. It has been called together by the Committee of the Society, appointed for the purpose, and holds its sessions at the Park Hotel, in New York City. The object of the meeting is to consider the state of the anti-slavery movement in the United States, and to lay plans for its future conduct. The Society has been in existence for twenty-four years, and has done much to advance the cause of freedom and justice in this country. We hope that it will continue to do so, and that its influence will extend throughout the land.