| THE LIBERATOR | JUNE 6 |

---

The New England Anti-Slavery Convention

The convention, held in Boston, considered the current state of the anti-slavery movement in New England and discussed potential strategies for future actions. The delegates debated the need for a unified approach to addressing the issue of slavery and decided on plans for future organizing efforts.

---

The Anti-Slavery Society in New York

The New York Anti-Slavery Society held its annual meeting, where members discussed the progress of abolitionist efforts in the city. The society reported significant gains in membership and highlighted the importance of continued education and outreach to the general public.

---

The Pennsylvania Anti-Slavery Society

The Pennsylvania Anti-Slavery Society met to address the recent abolitionist efforts throughout the state. The society discussed the need for stronger local chapters and the importance of public speaking engagements to increase awareness and support for the cause.

---

The Maryland Anti-Slavery Convention

The Maryland Anti-Slavery Convention convened in Baltimore to address the current challenges facing the abolitionist movement in the region. The convention focused on the need for more effective strategies to combat slavery in the southern states and the importance of education and mobilization among the working class.

---

The Louisiana Anti-Slavery Society

The Louisiana Anti-Slavery Society held its annual meeting, where members discussed the state of slavery in the region and the potential impact of recent federal legislation on the abolitionist movement. The society concluded that continued education and advocacy were crucial to succeed in their efforts.

---

The Missouri Anti-Slavery Convention

The Missouri Anti-Slavery Convention met to discuss the current political climate and the implications for the movement. The convention agreed on the need for a strong partnership with the national movement to ensure continued progress in the state.

---

The Illinois Anti-Slavery Society

The Illinois Anti-Slavery Society held its annual meeting, where members addressed the recent developments in the state. The society highlighted the importance of direct action and community organizing to address the issue of slavery and called for increased support for local chapters.

---

The Ohio Anti-Slavery Convention

The Ohio Anti-Slavery Convention convened to assess the movement's progress in the state and the need for coordinated efforts. The convention emphasized the importance of maintaining a strong presence in local communities and the need for increased funding to support abolitionist work.

---

The Indiana Anti-Slavery Society

The Indiana Anti-Slavery Society held its annual meeting, where members discussed the recent challenges facing the movement and the potential impact of upcoming state elections. The society concluded that continued education and mobilization were necessary to ensure favorable outcomes.