Selections.

THE WHITE MAN'S WALL.

A boy looking out one street last night about 11 o'clock, was about to cross the street, when he saw a man running down the street, with a gun in his hand, and pointing it at the head of a Negro woman. The boy, alarmed, cried out, and ran to the police, who were the first to reach the man, and who, without any ado, arrested him. It was learned, later, that the man was trying to rob a store, and that the Negro woman was the female, who, with her two children, was the would-be robber. The Negro woman was not harmed, but the man was taken to the police station, where he was charged with the crime.

POOR MAN'S SALE.

A poor man's sale was held in the street last night, and a large crowd of people gathered to see the goods. The man had a large number of articles, including shoes, clothing, and household goods. The prices were low, and many people bought goods. The sale was a success, and the man was pleased with the results.

THE END OF THE day.

The end of the day was marked by a great celebration in the city. The streets were filled with people, and the air was filled with the sounds of music. The day ended with a grand fireworks display, which was enjoyed by all who were in attendance.

THE MARCH ON WASHINGTON.

The march on Washington was a great success. The marchers were determined to make their voices heard, and they did so in a loud and clear manner. The marchers were met with a great deal of resistance, but they persisted in their efforts, and their goals were achieved.

POOR MAN'S HOUSE.

The poor man's house was the subject of a great deal of discussion last night. The house was not well constructed, and it was feared that it would collapse at any moment. The owner of the house was determined to have it repaired, but he was unable to do so due to lack of funds. The community came together to help the owner, and the house was repaired.

THE BOUNDARY OF PENNSYLVANIA.

The boundary of Pennsylvania was the subject of a great deal of debate last night. The boundary was not clear, and there was much confusion about where it was located. The community came together to resolve the issue, and the boundary was finally established.