THE LIBERATOR

JANUARY 10, 1863

ABIMET MILITARY OF THE SOUTH

SOUTH AFRICAN MILITARY

NEWS FROM THE SOUTH

NEW YORK, January 6, 1863.

The week has seen the worst in New York, and the news from the South is worse. Theзависимент of the government has increased, and the situation is critical. The President has called for a special session of Congress to meet on January 10, 1863, to consider the measures necessary to carry out his policy of emancipation. The Senate and the House have both declared that they will support the President in his efforts to end slavery. The fate of the Union now hangs in the balance.

The military situation in the South is also grave. The Confederate army has been defeated in several battles, and the Union forces are advancing toward Richmond. The Confederate President, Jefferson Davis, has called for a special session of the Confederate Congress to meet on January 10, 1863, to consider the measures necessary to carry out his policy of resistance. The Confederate Senate and the Confederate House have both declared that they will support the President in his efforts to resist the Union forces. The fate of the Confederacy now hangs in the balance.

THE SOUTHERN STATES

This is the situation, and the fate of the Union and the Confederacy is now in the hands of the people. The President has asked for your support, and the Confederate President has asked for your support. The fate of the Union and the Confederacy is now in your hands.

NEW YORK, January 6, 1863.

The week has seen the worst in New York, and the news from the South is worse. The зависимент of the government has increased, and the situation is critical. The President has called for a special session of Congress to meet on January 10, 1863, to consider the measures necessary to carry out his policy of emancipation. The Senate and the House have both declared that they will support the President in his efforts to end slavery. The fate of the Union now hangs in the balance.

The military situation in the South is also grave. The Confederate army has been defeated in several battles, and the Union forces are advancing toward Richmond. The Confederate President, Jefferson Davis, has called for a special session of the Confederate Congress to meet on January 10, 1863, to consider the measures necessary to carry out his policy of resistance. The Confederate Senate and the Confederate House have both declared that they will support the President in his efforts to resist the Union forces. The fate of the Confederacy now hangs in the balance.

THE SOUTHERN STATES

This is the situation, and the fate of the Union and the Confederacy is now in the hands of the people. The President has asked for your support, and the Confederate President has asked for your support. The fate of the Union and the Confederacy is now in your hands.

NEW YORK, January 6, 1863.

The week has seen the worst in New York, and the news from the South is worse. The зависимент of the government has increased, and the situation is critical. The President has called for a special session of Congress to meet on January 10, 1863, to consider the measures necessary to carry out his policy of emancipation. The Senate and the House have both declared that they will support the President in his efforts to end slavery. The fate of the Union now hangs in the balance.

The military situation in the South is also grave. The Confederate army has been defeated in several battles, and the Union forces are advancing toward Richmond. The Confederate President, Jefferson Davis, has called for a special session of the Confederate Congress to meet on January 10, 1863, to consider the measures necessary to carry out his policy of resistance. The Confederate Senate and the Confederate House have both declared that they will support the President in his efforts to resist the Union forces. The fate of the Confederacy now hangs in the balance.

THE SOUTHERN STATES

This is the situation, and the fate of the Union and the Confederacy is now in the hands of the people. The President has asked for your support, and the Confederate President has asked for your support. The fate of the Union and the Confederacy is now in your hands.