The Liberator

CHAPTER II.

LADIES AND LADIES' LETTERS.

Letter from a lady to the Liberator.

Dear Liberator,

I am a subscriber to your paper, and have been highly interested in the articles you have written on the subject of slavery. I am a abolitionist, and I am writing to you to ask your advice on a matter of great importance to me.

I have a slave who has been in my family for many years, and she has been a faithful and hardworking servant. However, I have recently been told that she is planning to escape to the north. I am unsure what to do, as I do not want to lose such a valuable servant. On the other hand, I do not want to see her suffer as a slave. What should I do?

Sincerely yours,

Dear [Name],

I am glad to hear from you. It is heartening to know that you are an abolitionist and are concerned about the well-being of your slave.

As for your dilemma, I believe it is important to consider the options available to you. One option is to offer your slave freedom and let her go. This would allow her to live a life without the constant threat of slavery.

However, I understand that this may not be possible for you. If this is the case, I would suggest that you look for other ways to help your slave. Perhaps you could connect her with other abolitionists who might be able to offer her shelter and support.

I hope this advice is helpful. Please let me know if you have any further questions.

Sincerely yours,
