The Liberator

Plantation Pictures

Dec. 23, 1839

A Christmas Present

Every day the child, longed more and more for the Christmas present. But it was not to be had, and the child's task was to get it. The child had a plan, and it was to be executed the next day. The plan was simple: in the night, the child would go to the store and get the present. The store was not far away, and the child knew the way. The present was to be a book, a book that would make the child happy. The child went to bed early, so as to be well rested for the journey. The child woke up early, and was ready to go. The store was closed at night, but the child knew where to find the books.

The Millionaire's Daughter

The millionaire's daughter, always dressed in the finest clothes, was known throughout the town for her beauty and wealth. She was known to be a kind and generous person, always helping those in need. This year, she decided to give something special to her little cousin, a young child from a poor family. She knew how joyful it would make the child to receive a Christmas present. She went to the store and bought a beautiful dress, a scarf, and a pair of mittens. She gave them to the child's mother, who was overjoyed. The child took the presents and hugged the mother tightly, feeling the warmth of the love and kindness.

The Simple Plan

One simple plan that was to be executed was to make a Christmas card for the child's mother. The child went to the store and bought a sheet of paper, a pencil, and some colored markers. The child drew a beautiful picture of a tree and some snowflakes. Then, the child wrote a message: "To my dear mother, I love you. Merry Christmas." The child was proud of the card and knew that it would make her mother very happy.

The Unexpected Gift

The last plan was to bring the child's parents a Christmas present. The child knew that they were hardworking and needed something special. The child went to the store and bought a box of chocolates. Then, the child made a sign that said: "Merry Christmas to the greatest parents in the world." The child put the sign on the box and left it at the door. The child waited with anticipation, knowing that the parents would come home soon.

The Christmas Eve

On Christmas Eve, the child went to bed early, hoping to catch a glimpse of Santa Claus. But the child was tired and fell asleep shortly after. The next morning, the child woke up to the sound of laughter and the smell of baking. The parents were home, and they had a wonderful Christmas meal. The child was happy to have a gift from them, but even more happy to have a family that loved and cared for her. The child knew that this Christmas would be remembered forever.