SELECTIONS.

LETTER FROM SOUKHHA BOURJAN.

To the Editor of The Liberator:—The President of the Turkish Republic, Mr. Sookhua Bourjan, has recently addressed several letters to the British and French governments, expressing his wish to establish relations of friendship and commerce with them. In one of these letters, Mr. Bourjan states that he is willing to submit to the arbitral power of the Great Powers the question of the boundaries of his country, and that he desires to have the assistance of the Great Powers in the peaceful settlement of this matter. He further states that he is prepared to receive the assistance of the Great Powers in the defense of his country, and that he is willing to make any sacrifice necessary for the preservation of his independence and sovereignty.

HENRY WARD BEECHER.

Brooklyn, Feb. 10, 1863.

The President Examination Society.

Yesterday a committee of the President Examination Society met to consider the matter of the examination of the President. The committee consisted of Mr. Everett, Mr. Seward, Mr. Sumner, Mr. Lincoln, and Mr. Bates. Mr. Lincoln presided. The committee decided that the President should be examined by a special commission, consisting of five members, who shall be appointed by the President, and who shall have the power to examine the President on all matters relating to his office. The committee also recommended that the examination should be held in open court, and that the President should be allowed to give evidence in his own behalf.

Letter from John B. Wright to Erastus Belcher.

Dear Sir:—The last annual meeting of the Massachusetts Anti-Slavery Society was held on Tuesday, the 9th inst. A large number of the friends of freedom were present, and the meeting was addressed by Mr. Belcher, who spoke in a most energetic and effective manner. The meeting decided to continue the publication of the Liberator, and to increase its circulation. The meeting also decided to send a deputation to the United States Congress, to petition for the immediate cessation of the war, and to demand the immediate emancipation of the slaves.

Accepting your good wishes, I remain, with the highest esteem, your obedient servant,

John B. Wright.

Erastus Belcher.

Feb. 10, 1863.

LETTERS FROM "CARLISLE."—Continued.

Brevard, Feb. 10, 1863.

The President Examination Society.

Yesterday the committee of the President Examination Society met to consider the matter of the examination of the President. The committee consisted of Mr. Everett, Mr. Seward, Mr. Sumner, Mr. Lincoln, and Mr. Bates. Mr. Lincoln presided. The committee decided that the President should be examined by a special commission, consisting of five members, who shall be appointed by the President, and who shall have the power to examine the President on all matters relating to his office. The committee also recommended that the examination should be held in open court, and that the President should be allowed to give evidence in his own behalf.

Accepting your good wishes, I remain, with the highest esteem, your obedient servant,

John B. Wright.

Erastus Belcher.

Feb. 10, 1863.
THE LIBERATOR.

NEW YORK, March 10, 1841.

PREFACE.

The present state of the Church of Christ in these United States is one of the most interesting topics of the age. It is a subject that is constantly presenting itself to the attention of the world, and one that is constantly arousing the curiosity of men. It is a subject that is constantly providing new and unexpected developments, and one that is constantly challenging the ingenuity of scholars and thinkers. It is a subject that is constantly confronting the Church with new and difficult questions, and one that is constantly demanding its attention and its resources. It is a subject that is constantly testing the patience and the devotion of its members, and one that is constantly provoking their anger and their despair.

The Church is a community of believers who have come together toworship God and to follow His teachings. It is a community that has a history and a tradition, and one that has a purpose and a mission. It is a community that has a structure and a hierarchy, and one that has a set of beliefs and a set of practices. It is a community that is made up of different races and different cultures, and one that is made up of different genders and different sexual orientations.

The Church is a community that is constantly evolving and changing, and one that is constantly facing new challenges and new opportunities. It is a community that is constantly making decisions and taking actions, and one that is constantly learning from its mistakes and its successes. It is a community that is constantly seeking to be true to its beliefs and its values, and one that is constantly striving to be true to its mission and its purpose.

The Church is a community that is constantly seeking to be true to its beliefs and its values, and one that is constantly striving to be true to its mission and its purpose.