THE LIBERATOR.

FOURTH DAY'S SESSION.

SATURDAY, MARCH 28, 1854.

VOL. XXXV. NO. 21.

BOSTON, FRIDAY, MAY 26, 1865.

WHOLE NO. 1790.

The Liberator.

ROBERT C. WRIGHT.

Our Country is the World, our Countrymen are all Mankind.

Vol. XXXV. No. 21.

Boston, Friday, May 26, 1865.

Whole No. 1790.

The Liberator.

ROBERT C. WRIGHT.

Our Country is the World, our Countrymen are all Mankind.

Vol. XXXV. No. 21.

Boston, Friday, May 26, 1865.

Whole No. 1790.

The Liberator.

ROBERT C. WRIGHT.

Our Country is the World, our Countrymen are all Mankind.

Vol. XXXV. No. 21.

Boston, Friday, May 26, 1865.

Whole No. 1790.

The Liberator.

ROBERT C. WRIGHT.

Our Country is the World, our Countrymen are all Mankind.

Vol. XXXV. No. 21.

Boston, Friday, May 26, 1865.

Whole No. 1790.

The Liberator.

ROBERT C. WRIGHT.

Our Country is the World, our Countrymen are all Mankind.

Vol. XXXV. No. 21.

Boston, Friday, May 26, 1865.

Whole No. 1790.
A PROTEST.

!Image

LISTENING FROM NEW YORK, NO. XXXII.

Letter from New York, May 16, 1863.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LIBERATOR.

Sir:—The sentiment pervading the American Anti-Slavery Society is that the course pursued by the Federal Government is right and just, and that the people of the country have every inducement to support the Administration in the prosecution of the war against the Southern Confederacy. The appeal to the public press, and particularly to the daily papers, on the subject of the war, has been made by the members of the Society in every part of the country, since the war began, in such language as to make it evident that the American Anti-Slavery Society is determined to do all in its power to support the Government in the prosecution of the war against the Southern Confederacy.

The members of the American Anti-Slavery Society have been active in the proceedings of the war, and have been instrumental in the formation of the numerous organizations that have been formed in every part of the country for the purpose of supporting the Government in the prosecution of the war.

There is no time to waste in the prosecution of the war, and the members of the American Anti-Slavery Society are determined to do all in their power to support the Government in the prosecution of the war against the Southern Confederacy.

Very respectfully,

[Signature]

A NOTE FROM MARY GREEW.

Mr. Editor:—I have been informed by my friends that the American Anti-Slavery Society has been active in the proceedings of the war, and have been instrumental in the formation of the numerous organizations that have been formed in every part of the country for the purpose of supporting the Government in the prosecution of the war.

The members of the American Anti-Slavery Society have been active in the proceedings of the war, and have been instrumental in the formation of the numerous organizations that have been formed in every part of the country for the purpose of supporting the Government in the prosecution of the war.

There is no time to waste in the prosecution of the war, and the members of the American Anti-Slavery Society are determined to do all in their power to support the Government in the prosecution of the war against the Southern Confederacy.

Very respectfully,

[Signature]
Selections.

UNITED STATES, IN THE DISTRICT OF THE AMERICAN A. SOCIETY.
The New York Independent, of last week, publishes the followingExtracts from an American A.S. letter, which we believe are worthy of public attention: It is requested, therefore, to present it to the public.

"I have been thinking a great deal of the subject, and am of the opinion that the American A.S. is right in its decision. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfere with the affairs of the society. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfere with the affairs of the society. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfere with the affairs of the society. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfere with the affairs of the society. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfere with the affairs of the society. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfere with the affairs of the society. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfere with the affairs of the society. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfere with the affairs of the society. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfere with the affairs of the society. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfere with the affairs of the society. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfere with the affairs of the society. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfere with the affairs of the society. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfere with the affairs of the society. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfere with the affairs of the society. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfere with the affairs of the society. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfere with the affairs of the society. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfere with the affairs of the society. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfere with the affairs of the society. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfere with the affairs of the society. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfere with the affairs of the society. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfere with the affairs of the society. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfere with the affairs of the society. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfere with the affairs of the society. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfere with the affairs of the society. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfere with the affairs of the society. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfere with the affairs of the society. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfere with the affairs of the society. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfere with the affairs of the society. It is a pity that the society should have been formed in the United States, and that the English statesmen should have been allowed to interfer..."